Gov. George Romney's "action team" of Republican nominees for state office made their second-to-last stand of the campaign in the Upper Peninsula last night at Escanaba Airport and Romney said:

"The Democrats are creating a national pork barrel to buy this election." In urging of Philip Ruppe to Congress Romney said "If the federal money spent in this district is related to who represents you in Congress, you face a more serious problem than the ones we're working on. If federal money is being used for these purposes it is robbing you of your birthright as citizens."

Snowed Out

Romney's DC-3 plane couldn't land at Marquette and Ironwood on a tour of the U.P. yesterday, but the candidates messages were phoned from the plane over Marquette to the crowd at the airport and a telephone relay carried their talks from Houghton to the waiting crowd at Ironwood Airport.

The group came to Escanaba from Iron Mountain by bus, accompanied by a motorcade. Stops were made at Norway, Hermansville and Powers-Spalding, where Pincroft Medicare Facility was visited and where Romney introduced his teammates to a crowd that filled the Big R Cafe.

They included U.S. Senator Robert Griffin, Attorney General Nominee Lawrence Lindemer, Secretary of State Nominee George Washington, State Board of Education Nominee James O'Neil, Congress Nominee Philip Ruppe, State Senator Thomas Schweigert, State Representative Nominee James Goulette of the 109th District and Charles Varnum of the 107th District.

Praises Griffin

Romney introduced Senator Griffin as "the man who wrote labor's Bill of Rights (the Landrum-Griffin Act)" and asked "what is his opponent known for except a green polkadot tie?"

The first Delta County stop was at Bark River where Romney spoke briefly. At the Escanaba Airport there were about 200 persons in the 20 degree cold at the hangar. It was one of the smaller turnouts of Romney's U. P. tour. James Kerwin of the Detroit News, who was with the tour and who accompanied G. Mennen Williams on an earlier U. P. tour, said that the Romney tour attracted larger turnouts than Williams.

"This election has great meaning," Romney told the airport crowd. "It is based on the conviction that citizenship is granted by the Creator, not by government. We believe in government by the consent of the governed."

Nuclear Arms Curb Support Seen In U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The U.N. General Assembly's top political committee was expected to give overwhelming approval today to a U.S.-Soviet appeal to all nations to refrain from any action that might help spread nuclear weapons.

Informed sources predicted the East-West proposal would poll almost unanimous support in the 121-nation committee, with only Albania voting no and France probably abstaining.

The 38-nation resolution was introduced as a stopgap measure until an accord can be reached on a treaty banning the spread of nuclear arms. Agreement on that pact has been held up by Soviet suspicions that the United States would find some loophole to give nuclear arms to West Germany.

The United States is reported preparing to change the wording of the treaty draft, it has proposed in an attempt to reassure the Soviet Union that no nuclear arms will fall into West German hands.

Red China's fourth nuclear weapon test last week and its announcement that the warhead was carried by a guided missile has increased clamor for a non-proliferation pact with the loudest demands coming from nations within firing range of the Chinese. India has urged that all the nuclear powers be obliged to halt atomic arms production under a nonproliferation pact, but Western delegates complain privately that the Indian demand creates needless confusion and will achieve nothing.

Snow And Cold Covers State

By The Associated Press
The furies turned to furies today as cold and snow covered Michigan, in some parts for the first time this season.

Marquette County airport, in the Upper Peninsula, reported nine inches of snow on the ground at 7 a.m.

Snow fell for the first time in the Detroit area, beginning in the early morning.

The U.S. Weather Bureau said the snow was caused by a low pressure area moving northward from northern Georgia.

The ground and hardtopped surfaces are still relatively warm and there will be considerable melting that will vary with the surface, the Weather Bureau said.

About an inch of wet snow and slush on pavements and about two inches accumulation on the ground were expected for this afternoon in southern portions of the state.

The bad weather had several of Michigan's touring political candidates sitting it out today, knocking holes in last-minute campaign plans.

President Back On U.S. Soil; Deeply Encouraged

Johnsons Were Sleeping Only 30 Miles Away

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—President Johnson returned to American soil Tuesday night and promised that the United States will take a firm anti-Communist stand in Asia—"and you can put it in your pipe and smoke it."

He made the statement in reference to the ambush of six American soldiers and a South Korean by North Korean troops in Korea eight hours before Johnson left Seoul for the United States.

In Anchorage, the traveling White House said the President asked for a complete report of the incident from the commander of the U.S. 8th Army in Korea.

Returning from a seven-nation tour, Johnson was greeted by several thousand residents of Alaska's largest city in a steady, but gentle, midnight rain.

The President told newcomers at Elmendorf Air Force Base, four miles from town, that United States is taking a stand in Asia—and Viet Nam—and "that stand is going to come true."

Although the dampened late-hour crowd was the smallest of his 31,000-mile journey around the Pacific, the President took his auto microphone in hand to urge repeatedly that his greeters "move back a yard there" and let the motorcade proceed.

Viet Nam was the theme of his impromptu speech in Anchorage, too. He said the United States won't permit the Communists to take over South Viet Nam—that if they succeeded there, "they might be in Dutch Harbor tomorrow."

Dutch Harbor is a community in Alaska's Aleutian Islands.

The President said he did not believe in ignoring a fire "until it gets to your front yard."

He emphasized again that his aim is to get Communist North Viet Nam to the negotiating table, "and the sooner they realize it, the better they'll be."

Johnson landed in Alaska's biggest city shortly before midnight, following a nonstop flight from the South Korean capital of Seoul.

The presidential jet set down at Elmendorf Air Force Base, five miles out of the city, at 11:36 p.m. AST — 4:36 a.m. EST.

Lyman Is Irked; Flees With Cash And Register Too

NOGALES, Ariz. (AP)—

When a service station attendant refused to cash a check for Clarence Finch Lyman, police said Lyman then:

Ripped the cash register from a shelf, short-circuiting the electrical system and plunging the filling station into darkness, and ran off with the register containing $202.

A short time after the incident Tuesday, police say they apprehended Lyman, 41, and recovered the cash register. He was charged with grand theft and jailed in lieu of $5,000 bond.

Kennedy's Autopsy Pictures Given To National Archives

WASHINGTON (AP)—The family of President John F. Kennedy has turned over to the National Archives pictures taken in connection with the autopsy performed after his assassination — pictures that doctors say add nothing to evidence already on record.

The 65 pictures and X-rays, which were not examined by the Warren Commission during its investigation, were presented to the archives under conditions which virtually preclude public viewing of them for many years.

A Justice Department spokesman said Tuesday night the department had asked for the 14 X-rays, 25 black-and-white negatives and 26 color transparencies to complete the government's collection of assassination material for the historical record.

The two Navy pathologists who performed the autopsy the night after Kennedy was shot said in interviews Tuesday night the X-rays and pictures merely back up testimony they gave the commission. And one of them said the photographs were intended for use in the trial of Lee Harvey Oswald, named by the commission as Kennedy's assassin.

"These photos are nothing more than supportive evidence for information we presented to the Warren Commission," said Cmdr. J. Thornton Bowell, who assisted Cmdr. James J. Humes in the autopsy. "All they would do would be to document what we discussed. I am sure the photographs would corroborate our testimony."

Under conditions laid down by the Kennedy family, there will be no nonofficial access to the autopsy pictures without the consent of the family for the first five years. This does not apply to official government investigating groups, which may see the pictures at any time.

After the first five years, access is limited to recognized experts in pathology or related services, again with the consent of the Kennedy family.

These restrictions, which apply for the lifetime of Kennedy's widow, his parents, brothers and sisters, and his two children, apparently preclude any critics of the Warren Commission report from viewing the pictures.

Socialist Labor Rally Is Saturday

DETROIT (AP)—Socialist Labor Party candidates for state offices will speak Saturday at the party's rally here. George Cozzini, a 1960 Socialist Labor Party candidate for U.S. vice president, also is scheduled to speak.

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—North Korean troops ambushed and killed six American soldiers and one South Korean below the armistice line before dawn today while President and Mrs. Johnson slept 30 miles away.

The incident was the gravest involving Americans since the Korean War ended in 1953. It occurred eight hours before Johnson left Korea for the United States.

In Anchorage, Alaska, the traveling White House said Johnson has asked for a complete report on the incident from Gen. Charles H. Bonesteel, commander of the U.S. 8th Army in Korea and of the United Nations Command there. The President met with Bonesteel Tuesday when he visited American and South Korean troops during his stay in South Korea.

There was one survivor, an American, from the U.S. 2nd Infantry Division patrol. Wounded by a grenade but reported in good condition, he said the attackers were North Korean army uniforms.

The Communists escaped and there was no indication that any were wounded.

The United Nations Command announced that the eight-man patrol was jumped by the Communists about 800 yards south of the demilitarized zone between North and South Korea.

The ambush occurred east of Libby Bridge, one of two spanning the Imjin River in the American sector of the front and close to Panmunjom where the Military Armistice Commission meets in the demilitarized zone.

The U.N. Command said the attack occurred at 3:15 a.m. President Johnson gave no indication that he was aware of it when he left Kimp'o Airfield 15 miles away. The ambush was not announced until five hours after the President took off.

The U.N. Command announced that:

Communist Made Casuals
"Expended shell casings in the area from which the ambush was launched were Communist-made."

"Search patrols discovered the wounded man and the slain soldiers."

"All of the dead and wounded were assigned to the 2nd Infantry Division. Their identities will be released after notification of next of kin."

It was the most serious of a series of North Korean attacks that began after Johnson's trip to Korea was announced Oct. 6. The U.N. Command demanded an immediate meeting of the Military Armistice Commission to take up the ambush and "other serious violations of the armistice agreement."

No Americans were involved in 10 previous incidents that began along the armistice line on Oct. 15. Several South Korean soldiers were killed.

Ambulance Owner Tells Why Call Was Refused

James Schwalbach, 36, the owner of City Ambulance at Escanaba, today explained why he refused service to an elderly woman, Mrs. Tockis Swanson, 65, of North Bay Shore, who was transported to St. Francis Hospital in a station wagon by Escanaba police.

Schwalbach said he was having trouble collecting fees under Medicare laws.

"I just can't afford to feed my family if I don't get paid," said Schwalbach, who has been in business here for three years.

Mrs. Swanson was in poor condition at the hospital Monday. Today her condition is listed as fair, indicating that she is improving.

Her physician, Dr. Raymond Hockstad, said she apparently suffered a stroke. City police in calling for an ambulance reported she appeared to have difficulty in breathing. Firemen gave her oxygen.

First Refusal
The delay which resulted from calling police to drive Mrs. Swanson to the hospital in a neighbor's car probably did not affect her condition, Hockstad said.

"I've been having a lot of trouble collecting fees since Medicare went into effect," Schwalbach said. "I'm still trying to collect bills from as far back as July."

"But in the three years I've owned the City Ambulance Service and in the three years before that that I was employed

Ore Shipping Dips Slightly

Shipments of iron ore by the Chicago & North Western Railway at Escanaba dipped a bit in October—but the total to date is still above last year and the navigation season will continue for nearly two months here.

Lee McMillan, C&NW dock agent, reported that ore shipments in October this year totaled 674,513 tons, compared to 704,325 tons for the same month last year.

Although there was the slight decline in ore volume loaded at Escanaba in October, McMillan said, "We're still ahead this year by some 198,000 tons."

For the season to date the North Western has shipped 5,431,841 tons of ore from Escanaba, compared to 5,235,884 for the same period a year ago.

"Weather permitting, we should go quite a bit over last year's total for the season," McMillan said. "We expect to be in business until Christmas—giving almost two months more. A lot depends on the weather, of course."

Extreme cold causes the iron to freeze in the railroad cars and requires that the ore be thawed before it can be dumped from the cars into the dock pockets and thence into the ore boats. So far the ore thawing facility has not been needed this season.

Approximately one-half the total ore tonnage received here is pellet ore—a processed ore which is dry and does not require thawing.

Delta's Belgian Settlement Is History Topic

The history of the Belgian settlement at St. Nicholas in Delta County—a community that is now one of the most progressive agricultural areas in the Upper Peninsula—will be the subject of the next meeting of the Delta County Historical Society.

The meeting will be held Monday, Nov. 7, at 8 p. m. in the basement of the Delta County Court House. The Court House west door on 4th St. should be used.

Joseph A. Heirman, Delta County extension director, and member of a pioneer family of the Belgian settlement, will be the speaker. The Heirmans were the first to buy farm land in the area that became St. Nicholas.

Arrangements for the program are being made by Charles Folio, Society vice president. The meeting will be conducted by Robert Schmeling, Society president.

Members are invited to bring friends and the interested public is welcome.

FREDERICK C. BELEN, left, of Washington, D. C., deputy postmaster general, accepts from Dr. Edgar L. Harden, president of Northern Michigan University a "Minute Man" citation at a luncheon meeting at the Forest Inn in Au Train. Dr. Harden, state chairman for the 1967 Michigan Week celebration made the award after formal dedication of the Christmas, Mich., Post Office, at which Belen gave the commemorative address. Christmas was the only place in the nation where persons could buy a 1966 Christmas stamp Tuesday. They went on sale elsewhere today.

College Planning:

Board Asks Aid Of Liaison Body

There is continuing change and growth at Bay de Noc Community College, Richard Rinehart, president, told the Escanaba Rotary Club at its meeting at the House of Ludington Tuesday noon.

Among the considerations by the Governing Board of the College is the naming of a College-Community Liaison Committee to assist in the preparation of a long range master plan for the College, Rinehart reported.

Letters of invitation have been sent to about 40 persons in the county and the committee will meet for the first time from 8 to 10 p. m. on Nov. 10 in the College Student Center.

The committee is expected to meet approximately once each month until a plan is completed, and it is hoped this will be accomplished by April of 1967. The work of the committee will then be finished.

The group would advise the College Board of Trustees on the relationships of the plan and other developments in the community, such as the planning agencies and react to proposals and ideas suggested by consultants and faculty. The board, however, determines policies for the preparation of the plan, review progress, evaluate criteria, and make the final decision for approval.

Some of the questions to be answered by the master plan which is being prepared with the cooperative aide of the citizen group:

What is the extent and method of implementation of the goals of the Community College in terms of programs to be offered, services to be rendered, service area and role in relation to other institutions?

What type and general site location should be the goal of the College? The answer to this one should show the general site for 1980 and beyond, the extent of needs for 1975 and the steps to be taken in 1970.

What types of buildings and what combinations of facilities should the College develop in each time period?

City To Name Advisory Body

The Escanaba City Council will name a citizens advisory committee in connection with progress in its planning program when it meets Thursday at 8 p. m. in the City Hall.

The committee will be formed under the terms of the Workable Program for Community Improvement and part of the proposed project which is expected to receive federal fund participation.

City Manager George Harvey said the agenda includes:

Opening of bids to supply the city with three standard four-door sedans; and bids for the construction of a harbor master building at the city yacht basin.

The harbor master building will cost an estimated $30,000 of which $10,000 will be funds received from the Michigan Waterways Commission. The remainder will be city funds.

There will be a report and recommendation on bulldozer bids; and the consideration of an updated report from the Recreation Board on plans and programs.

The Council will also hear the presentation of a code for parents and youth, prepared by the Area PTA Council.

'67 CHEVROLET

Impala Super Sport Coupe—a clean new sweep in roof lines.

Now that you've seen all the daring new things our stylists did, get in and sample some of the safest, soundest ideas on the road!

What you feel is as new as what you see—thanks to all the fresh thinking that's gone into the way it rides, steers, stops and looks after your safety.

It's got a remarkable new road feel—beginning with a ride so hushed and gentle you'll feel like calling this the '67 Shhchevrolet. The steering is as much as 10% easier. And you'll find the stopping smoother, too.

We put safety features on top of safety features. For example, an energy-absorbing steering wheel atop the new GM-developed energy-absorbing steering column. A dual master cylinder brake system with warning light. And seat belts front and rear with pushbutton buckles. All standard, to be sure.

And there's a new SS 427 performance package—complete with 385-hp Turbo-Jet V8 and flat-cornering suspension. You can order it for either the Impala Super Sport Coupe or Convertible.

Of course, there are all sorts of new custom features you can add, too, such as tape or FM stereo. But if you find so much that's new a bit too much to remember—drop down to your dealer's and take a drive. It'll all become unforgettable.

Everything new that could happen...happened! Now at your Chevrolet dealer's.

Snow Blanket Scene Of Christmas Stamp First Day Of Issue

CHRISTMAS (AP) — A two-inch blanket of snow — the season's first here — fell on Christmas Tuesday as first-day sales of the nation's 1966 Christmas stamp began in this Lake Superior village about midway across Michigan's Upper Peninsula.

The commemorative five-cent stamp goes on sale elsewhere over the country today. The five-color stamp features a portion of the painting "Madonna and Child with Angels," by the 15th Century Flemish artist Hans Memling.

The first stamps of the new issue went to Paul E. Petosky of St. Ignace, Mich.

He began a vigil at the post office at 5:30 p. m. Monday and stood in 29-degree weather through a night that began with rain, which changed to sleet and then to snow to be first at the door at its 8 a. m. opening.

Petosky, a newsman with radio station WIDG of St. Ignace, bought a sheet of 100 stamps.

Christmas got its own post office only last summer in the climax to a long, unanimous effort by its townsfolk—all 75 of them.

Christmas got on the map only in 1938, with the building of a factory to produce toys here. Its name was changed from Onota. The toys came from the region's most abundant resource, wood.

But the toy factory burned in 1940 and Christmas languished, until it got its own post office, which really is a branch of the one at nearby Munising.

But it has its own Christmas postmarking stamp, even if it is located in Mrs. Pauline Burness' gift shop and she normally is its entire work force.

Tuesday Mrs. Burness had 30 helpers stamping Christmas postmarks on thousands of envelopes sent here from all over the world for stamps and first-day cancelling.

Frederick C. Belen, deputy postmaster general, came home to Michigan to help Christmas celebrate its biggest day since a long-gone blast furnace was built here in the 1870s to make pig iron.

Belen is a native of Lansing, who began a government career 29 years ago. An overnight guest at Santa's Motel, he was a speaker at a noon luncheon, where he received an award for "great loyalty and home state."

The Munising High School Band came to play Christmas music, of course, and W.H. Treiber, publisher of three Upper Peninsula newspapers was master of ceremonies.

Belen expects the Christmas stamp rush to continue, and for the nation as a whole the Post Office Department has ordered 1.2 billion printed.

Plastics Strike End Seems Near

SOUTH ROCKWOOD (AP)—The president of Better Plastics of Michigan Inc. said Tuesday that a settlement might be reached by the end of this week in the 106-day-old strike at his plant.

The strike started last July 18, with 19 women and five men on the picket line. A day later the men went back to work. The women have picketed without them ever since then.

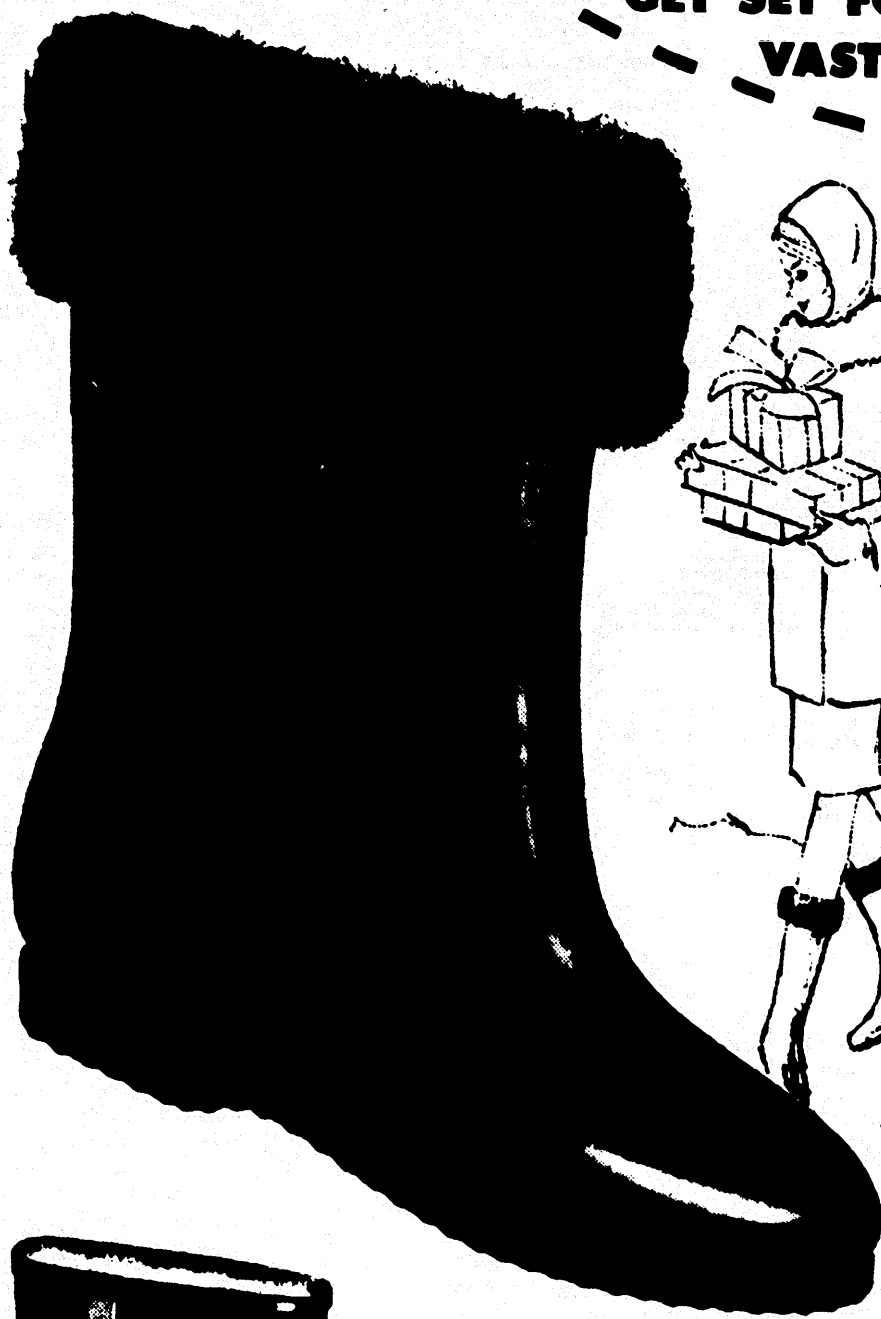

Renato Tordi, president of the firm, said a new negotiating session Tuesday found both the company and the United Auto Workers union "giving a little."

Williams And Griffin

The greatest uncertainty in Michigan's Nov. 8 election rides on the Senate race, with the public opinion polls indicating that Soapy Williams is in trouble and that Senator Bob Griffin is the best bet to win.

This outlook is quite a switch from the primary. Gus Scholle named Williams as Labor's man and put him over in the primary, knocking out Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh, who challenged him for the Democratic nomination to the Senate seat vacated by the death of Pat McNamara. Governor George Romney had named five-times Congressman Griffin to the office.

The Democratic machine in Michigan had hoped to shoo Soapy into the nomination without a contest. It had hoped so hard that Cavanagh would oppose Romney for the governorship. The primary fight was unsettling for the Democrats. The statewide party's favorite won, but his spirit seemed to have been expanded in the primary, and then he had to have surgery that further drained his strength.

But Soapy's biggest trouble is not age. It is change. When he resumed the campaign he was running scared. He counted on labor support to put him over and he made the familiar handshake his chief campaign strategy. There was a campaign soft pedal on his unprecedented 12 years as governor of Michigan, more mention of his years in the State Department. But that was in an office held before him and after him by political unknowns.

Soapy started his campaign saying that his opponent, Griffin, would have a lot of explaining to do about his authorship of the Landrum-Griffin Labor Act. But Griffin and Governor Romney carried the fight to him on that one, bringing it up more often than Soapy did, and finally, challenged by Griffin. Soapy said that he, too, had been in the Senate, would have voted for the Landrum-Griffin Act. It grew out of the McClellan Committee's investigation of labor racketeering and makes union bosses responsible to their memberships.

Both Griffin and Williams were in the Upper Peninsula this week and the electorate had a view of the two men. Williams is the most familiar man in Michigan, an enormous advantage to a politician. He is, on sight, even more familiar to more persons than George Romney. Griffin's big problem has been public identity. Governor Romney has gone all-out to make up the deficiency, committing himself more to the Senator than to anyone else on the ticket, introducing and recommending him everywhere.

The weekly Lapeer County Press downstate appraised it well. "Williams," it said editorially "never lost an election or solved a problem. His campaign is based on a grin, a handshake and a refusal to debate a solid issue. Griffin is in refreshing contrast. A labor-management lawyer—a new breed—he has walked the middle road and already has written that philosophy into a wise labor law. He makes decisions without favoritism. His actions have never brought embarrassment to Michigan and some of his work has brought prestige."

Williams, of course, has brought more unfavorable notice to Michigan than anyone in its history. His unprecedented governorship was an unprecedented disaster. Griffin's sharp campaign has been fresh and forward looking and Soapy's has been a rear view mirror. The public reaction has been showing up in the public opinion polls. The Democrats scoffed at those made for the Detroit News and for Griffin himself, but the Williams' forces' own polls have shown the same results.

Labor's refusal to take Cavanagh on any terms but its own cost it a chance to confront Griffin with the party's strongest candidate for the Senate. The Democratic party's rescue missions for Soapy have pointed up the trouble rather than solved it. The Kennedy Brothers and Hubert Humphrey have come to Michigan to say good things about Williams, but the reaction has been typified by the headline from Saginaw: "Williams Forgotten as Crowds Shriek 'Love' for Ted Kennedy."

Griffin, if he wins, is free to serve the people of Michigan well in the Senate.

Families Of Men In Viet Nam Find Home On Deactivated Base

WASHINGTON (AP) — The women have formed a "waiting wives" club while the men are away. They take turns babysitting for one another. Town and a hairdresser are nearby. Elementary school is just around the corner.

A cozy suburb? Almost. Actually, it's a military housing experiment that could lead to the conversion of some deactivated bases into bustling communities of wives and children. The name is Schilling Manor. Population: 3,100, including 2,500 children. It's on a portion of Schilling Air Force Base, Kan., shut down last December as a part of Pentagon economy moves.

Now, use of the base's housing is getting a favorable once over as a new approach to assuring living quarters for families of servicemen ordered to such isolated duty areas as Viet Nam. At Schilling Manor, servicemen's families are guaranteed housing the entire period their "sponsors" — the menfolk — are serving out one-year overseas.

"This housing is especially for what we call 'short-fuse' guys who have to go pretty fast without much time to arrange something for their wives," a spokesman said.

The military services routinely accommodate such families wanting or needing government quarters by assigning them excess housing on a what's-available basis at various installations. But people assigned to those bases naturally get first choice.

After 10 months, Schilling Manor's success seems assured. The project will be continued at least through 1968, a spokesman said.

Whether to open other housing at deactivated bases is being considered. Army studies are under way to determine what future housing needs will be.

More than 800 wives from all over the country have chosen Schilling Manor, near Salina, Kan., over "going home to mama," the defense spokesman said.

Officials expect the 730 homes — two, three and four-bedroom houses — to be filled by the end of the year.

The project is open to families of all services but the Army is more or less in charge of the operation.

The rent ranges from $135 a month to $205, depending on a man's rank. It amounts to forfeiture of his separation pay and housing allowance.

Wallace Perils Nixon

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Richard Nixon's aspirations for the 1968 Republican presidential nomination may be seriously damaged by current and foreseeable political trends in the South.

The harm can come to him mostly from Alabama's Gov. George C. Wallace and his all-but-announced plan to seek the presidency on a third party ticket.

Nixon is, of course, the darling of southern GOP conservative leaders whose prior allegiance was to Barry Goldwater. Some of them have told this reporter they would favor Nixon for 1968 even if actor Ronald Reagan should win the California governorship big this year from Democratic Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown.

Party professionals have been assuming for months that, if that sentiment holds, Nixon could take to the next convention a bloc of 250 to 300 southern delegates—a very formidable base.

Put together with other avowedly conservative strength around the country, and possibly augmented by upwards of 90 delegates which a "Governor" Reagan might hand him from California, this Nixon southern bloc would place him in major contention.

This delegate power could conceivably be his even if he chose to avoid all presidential primary confrontations against Michigan's Gov. George W. Romney, his evident top rival for 1968.

Yet, in the new circumstances prevailing in the South, this whole conception is imperiled.

The southerners' argument is that, leaving out the inexperienced Reagan, Nixon is the nearest thing they can find to the Goldwater they cherished in 1964. From this flows the further contention that Nixon is the Republican most likely to put some southern states in the 1968 election column.

That argument was used to good effect in the Goldwater campaign and he did indeed carry five southern states in 1964.

People, Events Of Yesteryears

25 Years Ago

Town Hall, a new organization formed from the Community Concert Committee as a nucleus, planned to present a series of outstanding musical and lecture numbers at the Wm. W. Oliver Auditorium during the concert season. It was announced by Mrs. Lythner Krantz, chairman.

For the first year since its organization during World War days, the Hiawatha club, composed of Upper Peninsula students at the University of Michigan would include girl students in its membership, Ralph Coplan, Escanaba, chairman of the club's athletic activities announced.

50 Years Ago

Because of the fact that the basement of the Carnegie library would be in use as a voting place, Bundle Day, planned by members of the charity committee of the Escanaba Women's club was postponed.

Never in the history of this city was a greater interest displayed in the result of an election than last night. From 5:30 last night until 4 o'clock this morning, a battery of telephones at the Press office was kept constantly in use receiving and dispatching the election results.

Darwin, capital and chief port of Australia's Northern Territory, was founded in a gold rush in 1869.

Commiss Build For Big Effort

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. military men say the Communists in Viet Nam are desperately in need of a significant battle victory, and probably are building up in the north for an attempt to achieve one.

Military sources say Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the U.S. commander in Viet Nam, is concerned about the demilitarized zone between North and South Viet Nam, created by the 1954 Geneva conference which divided the nation.

Signs of a big Communist buildup have been detected in the general area along with indications that the North Vietnamese 334B Division, badly hurt by the U.S. Marines' Operation Hastings in August, is being reactivated.

U.S. attention also is turned to the south — to the Mekong Delta area, where up to now there has been no major American deployment. An American drive into the delta is in prospect.

An upsurge in Viet Cong terror in many areas of South Viet Nam is interpreted as a reflection of Communist frustration.

Military men say the Viet Cong are showing an increased disinclination to stand and fight anywhere, preferring instead to use their old hit-and-run tactics.

Auto Sales Tax Receipts Stable

LANSING (AP) — Tax receipts from auto sales aren't keeping pace with increases from other sources, reports the State Department of Revenue.

The department said Michigan took in $87,000,000 in sales and use taxes during October, a gain of 8.4 per cent over October, 1965.

"This increase is encouraging," said Revenue Commissioner Clarence Lock. "However, the increase comes almost entirely from nonautomotive lines of business, and the tax receipts from car sales are approximately the same as last year."

Lock said "a fair proportion" — perhaps as much as half — of the increase "represents higher costs because of inflation."

Ann Landers Time To Tell Her To Update Material

Dear Ann Landers: How old must a person be before he lives down a childhood mistake?

When I was nine years old I found a hole in the wall which was covered by a picture. My father had made the hole as a hiding place for his somewhat meager savings.

When the circus came to town I wanted very much to go but I had no money. That was the day I found the hole in the wall. I took $2.50 and treated myself, by two sisters, and my brother to a wonderful day at the circus.

When father came home to dinner he told us he had heard that his children had had quite a day and then the whole story about the money came out. I got such a wallop I couldn't sit down for two days.

Im now a married man, 45 years of age. My oldest son is in the Air Force. I have been the treasurer for the United Fund and other well-known civic organizations. To this day my sister loves to tell everybody she knows about the time I stole the money and went to the circus. When she learned I was to be the treasurer for our church fellowship group she said, "How much do you plan to make from the job?"

Please tell me how to respond to these poisonous little birds which have been hung at me all these years. — FOREVER GUILTY

Dear Forever: There isn't a person living who has not done at least one extremely foolish or dishonest thing in his childhood.

Your sister must be pretty desperate for conversation if she had to go back 36 years to dig up something to talk about. Of course, nobody takes her seriously when she shoots off her mouth this way and you shouldn't either. The next time she brings up the subject tell her to update her material or get a new writer.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 14-year-old girl who needs someone to tell me if I am right or wrong.

My best friend (I will call her Cindy) told me she would sleep at my house Friday night. I asked her one whole week in advance and it was all set. My dad was supposed to pick her up at 7:00 that evening. At 7:00 p. m., she telephoned and said, "I got a call from Mrs. So-and-So a few minutes ago and she wants me to baby-sit for her tonight. I told her I would. I'll sleep at your house some other time."

This is not the first time Cindy has done this to me. A few weeks ago we made plans to go to the Fair and then her mother called to apologize for her.

I am really burned up and wonder if you think I should be a friend to her if she wants to make up. Please make up my mind. — WILMA

Dear Wilma: Cindy is flakey and if you didn't know it before you certainly should know it now. So accept her limited, half-baked, semi-sincere friendship if you want to settle for a half-baked, semi-sincere friendship. It is obvious that she does not attach the importance to the relationship that you do.

Confidential to Miss Confidential: Don't bet the rent. Marriage is no cure for excessive drinking. The odds are good that he will drink more after marriage, not less. Added pressures and the responsibilities of his "ready made family" will probably send him back to the bottle for comfort and escape.

Unsure of yourself on dates? What's right? What's wrong? Should you? Shouldn't you? Send for Ann Landers' booklet "Dating Do's and Don'ts," enclosing with your request 35c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Students Hold Mock Election

Today and Tuesday of this week students from the Escanaba Area Senior High School cast their votes in a mock political election.

Committees from all nine government classes in school conducted the election and, prior to this, the registration of all students wishing to vote. Voting machines were used and were set up with the same candidates listed as will be on the ballot for the Nov. 8 election.

Government teachers Elnora Veder and Richard Ferrario, served as advisors for the Committee, but the actual arrangements were made by the government students. Do n Guindon, city clerk, cooperated in the arrangements.

Students who served on the various committees:

Registration—Carol Paulson, Barb Coolman, Kathy Sundquist, Duane Deno, Chris Barron, Phyllis Benjamin, Cindy Ottensman, Jean Cox, Donna Way, Chuck Valind, Tom McInerney.

The first step toward formation of a U. S. Coast Guard Auxiliary in Escanaba was taken Tuesday night at a meeting at the Escanaba Yacht Club.

Purpose of an auxiliary is to assist the U. S. Coast Guard in search and rescue operations, make boat inspection for safe operation and advise boat owners and operators of safety precautions.

The Coast Guard was represented by Lt. Commander A. E. Spurl, Cleveland, director of auxiliaries; Glenn R. Cox, Hancock, executive officer of the Coast Guard Portage Group, and B. M. C. Donald Sothoron, chief of the Escanaba Light station.

Also attending the meeting was George Widmeyer, Houghton, Captain of the Houghton-Hancock auxiliary group.

Walter Lawke, commodore of the Escanaba Yacht Club, said the program will be discussed at the regular meeting of the yacht club next Wednesday at 8 p. m. He pointed out that while membership in the Yacht Club is not a requirement for serving in the auxiliary, the Yacht Club is the logical place to begin organization.

An auxiliary group would need a minimum of 10 power or sail boat owners, according to Coast Guard regulations.

Lawke said the organization is expected to be operational by the time boating season begins next year.

Former Schaffer Resident Dies

Mrs. Georgiana Racicot, 98, of Kenosha, Wis., died at 7 p. m. Sunday following a lengthy illness. She was the widow of the late Joseph Racicot who died many years ago. The family lived in Schaffer many years.

Survivors are three sons, Louis Racicot of Escanaba, Walter and Raymond of Detroit, and five daughters, Mrs. William (Mona) Lindquist of Detroit, Sister Germaine of Joliet, Wis., Sister Columba of Utica, Mich., Mrs. George (Bernice) Parker of Neenah, and Mrs. Paul (Marie) Buchart of San Mateo, Calif. Services will be held in Neenah on Wednesday.

Adolph Dahl Honored At Legion Dinner

BARK RIVER — Adolph Dahl, retired farmer, was honored Saturday night at a dinner party sponsored by the Rheum-Knauf American Legion Post 438 held in Andy's Club Room. Dahl, a Legionnaire since 1920, was presented a life membership certificate and a Legion blazer by George Beaudoin, Stephenson, Upper 11th District Committeeman.

Dahl was inducted into the United States Army Sept. 22, 1917, and was bugler for Company F, 237th Infantry, 88th Division. He served in France from July 22, 1918 until he returned to the United States April 4, 1919. He participated in operations of the Second Army between the Meuse and Moselle Rivers from Nov. 9 through 11, 1918 and was in France when the armistice was signed.

He joined the Cleveland Post 82, Escanaba in 1960 and transferred to the local post when it was organized. He has four sons, Harlan, Len, Vernon and Roy, and a son-in-law in this post. His wife, the former Vera Palmgren, is a charter member of the Auxiliary. His two daughters are also Auxiliary members and two granddaughters are in the Junior Auxiliary.

Mrs. Arthur Fournier, president of the Auxiliary, presented Mr. Dahl with a boutonniere and Mrs. Dahl with a corsage.

Family Talk Goes Public

It's said that Macy's doesn't talk to Gimbel's and that children and parents don't talk the same language today.

The Upper Peninsula Family Relations Conference in Escanaba on Friday will explore at least the second statement.

It's theme is "Parents and Children Talk About Understanding Each Other." The conference is sponsored by the Upper Peninsula Chapter of the Michigan Council on Family Relations, the State Human Resources Council Division on Strengthening the Family. Bay de Noc Community College and the U. P. Family Life Bureau.

Lyle Plowman, professor of sociology at Bay College is chairman of the conference; Jean Worth, editor of the Escanaba Daily Press will preside at the day long sessions, President Richard Rinehart of the college will give the welcome and Dr. Robert R. Bell, professor of sociology at Temple University, Philadelphia, will give the keynote address and summation.

Dr. Bell's address at 10 a. m. in Bonifas Auditorium will be on "Some Sources of Parent-Child Conflict." The conference opens at 9 a. m.

Robert Poisson Dies On Sunday

Word was received Monday that Robert Poisson, 39, of Berkley, Mich., died suddenly Sunday evening at his home.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lucien Poisson of Wilson. Surviving are his widow and six children and the following brothers, Louis of Gwinna, Donald of Arizona, Gerald and Jack of Detroit, and Gordon of Milwaukee. Funeral services will be held on Wednesday in Berkley.

Detroit Postal Crisis Clearing

DETROIT (AP) — The three-week crisis in the Detroit Post Office is about over. Emil N. Asa, director of administrative services, said Tuesday.

The office has hired 200 additional carriers and 300 extra clerks to cope with the unusually heavy load of mail. They will stay on duty through the Christmas rush, he said.

The load reached proportions similar to the Christmas peak period, Asa said, with seven million pieces of mail on hand one morning last week when the post office opened.

Asa blamed the rush on the fact that users of second and third-class mail began stepping up their mailings so they could get their mailing lists in order by the first of the year, when new postal regulations take effect.

Michigan I Road Route, Investment Passes $1 Billion

LANSING (AP) — Investment in Michigan's interstate highway system, now 789 miles long, has passed the $1 billion mark, the State Highway Commission said Tuesday.

In the last 10 years, $1,035,000,000 has been spent on the freeway system which, when completed, will stretch 1,080 miles and will have cost $1,584,000,000, the commission said.

With 73 per cent of its interstate system completed, Michigan leads the nation. Nationally, 53 per cent of the interstate system is open to traffic.

The federal government pays 90 per cent of the costs and Michigan pays 10 per cent.

Recreation Business Is Big Hope But Pocr Risk

By JEAN WORTH

Many people in the recreation business live in hope that the future in it will be very big and make up for marginal operations today.

They get real shook when they hear a talk like the one that Robert C. Greaves, a land use planner of Milwaukee, gave to the Upper Michigan Tourist Association at its recent meeting at Indianhead Mountain resort near Bessemer.

"There is very little future in the recreation business as I see it," said Greaves. "My statement draws wrath, but it is terrifying in our work to see what is happening."

"We see tremendous problems in converting the United States to a recreational society. In Washington you can walk for miles past decks of Agriculture Department workers who have nothing to do. They have got to be converted to this recreational philosophy. The future of the recreation industry is nebulous. Those of us concerned with it are pessimistic."

Loans Lacking

"We think it's tough because we find the data needed to expand the potential of the industry is missing. In recreation there is no market data while in industry you can get the facts bing-bing."

"There is an almost complete lack of talent in resort management people. It's a personality deal on a small basis, so it's hard to assemble on a larger enterprise."

"There is a lack of imagination and a lack of intelligent and adequate financing. It is practically impossible to get adequate loans for recreational improvement or to start an enterprise or develop one. It is not regarded as a sound investment except on paper."

"There is a lack of cooperation between the federal and state governments and the private investor. There is a lack of trust between the private industry and those who lend the money. This distrust goes back to the use of the land."

Lack An Image

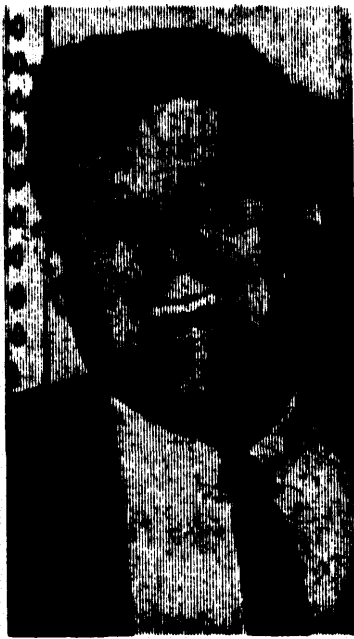

"We have yet to see any chunk of land like Sylvania (an 18,000 acre wilderness tract in Gogebic County recently bought by the U. S. A. Agriculture Department for $5 million as a playground addition to the Ottawa National Forest) make any impact on the recreational market. A lot of money is not made in these areas, but rather in the intensively developed areas where things are going on."

It terrifies me when they talk of travel. There is no adventure travel any more, in our planning we can't recognize it. They spend the least amount of time in getting there. They are in Las Vegas in two hours by jet and the action starts when they get off the plane. They think of getting to Indianhead and not the U. P.

"It is fantastic the lack of legislative power that you have. No one has enough votes and so there's not enough power or money to buy enough power. You lack an image. If you could get gambling back you'd have an image."

Only Federal Funds

"We have four offices; one of them in the Upper Peninsula. Our problems stem from the apathy of the people. They lack the will to move. Maybe those 18 pound salmon will bring them; it sounds great to me! (The meeting had heard Dr. Wayne Tody of the Conservation Department describe the salmon fishery being developed in the Great Lakes.)

Robert C. Greaves

"The only source of money is Uncle Sam. Unfortunately most of his aid is for communities, but there is some available if we approach it properly. Our difficulty is that these federal funds are with the Farmers Home Administration SDA and SCA support. They're now charged with funding these programs, but just because they are told to take charge doesn't mean that they have the skills or the staff or the money to get it."

"It is inconceivable that men who have been processing farm home loans are going to be experts on these matters that we who have been in the business for 16 years can't make sense of."

Profit Is Key

"It's idiocy and I tell a few of them this. Public officials seem to think that only they can be trusted with the physical resources of the nation. Mining companies are as interested as public officials but the suspicion of them is overriding. 'You're in there to make a buck!' they're told. 'You're damned right and until they do

Court May Rule In Deer Hunting Issue On Monday

LANSING (AP) — The State Court of Appeals is reported likely to decide Monday whether or not to order Michigan to limit shooting of antlerless deer.

Court Clerk Ronald Dzierbicki said Tuesday the appeals judges probably will decide next week whether to issue a writ against the State Conservation Department as requested by the Michigan Deer Hunters Association.

The state attorney general's office is expected to file Friday an answer to the petition of association attorney Cyrus Adee of Gladwin, Dzierbicki said.

Adee asked the court to order Conservation Director Ralph MacMullan to restrict issue of antlerless deer permits, to stop distributing them by lottery and to stop using the new paper deer-marking tags.

Adee charges the department is exceeding the authority granted it by the legislature in its antlerless deer policies. He also says the deer tags can be transferred from a male to a female deer without detection.

Drugs For Draft

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Some young men in the St. Louis area have used drugs to increase their blood pressure before reporting for their Selective Service physical examinations, the clerk of 10 St. Louis local draft boards says.

Marguerite Ward, the clerk, did not name the drug.

Mrs. Ward said doctors are reviewing the examination reports of all men who had been rejected because of high blood pressure.

Ship Freed From St. Mary's River Shoal On Tuesday

DETROIT (AP) — The motorship Halifax was pulled from the Pipe Island shoal in the lower St. Mary's River Tuesday where it had been grounded since Monday.

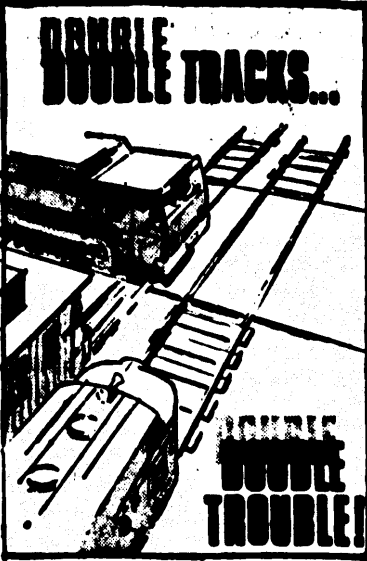

The 446-foot vessel lay anchored behind nearby Squaw Island awaiting damage inspection.

The Halifax was pulled free by the John McLean, an 80-foot commercial tug from Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

The hull of the vessel had been ripped when it went aground and water flooded one of its holds. The Coast Guard said the ship took on about 130 tons of water. None of the crew members was injured.

The Halifax, owned by Hall Corp. of Canada, was en route from Port Arthur, Ont., to Oswego, N.Y., with 11,143 tons of potash when it went aground in the river just north of the De-Tour Passage at the eastern tip of the Upper Peninsula.

Damage inspection was being conducted by the St. Ignace Marine Inspection Office.

Area Women To Observe World Community Day

World Community Day will be observed on Friday, Nov. 4 in the Central Methodist Church located at 322 S. 23rd St. A desert luncheon will be served at 1 o'clock followed by the business meeting and program. Mrs. Walter Bjorkquist, president will preside.

Mrs. A. V. Aronson will be guest speaker and her topic is, "The Laity: Rights, Resources and Responsibilities." Music will be furnished by a ladies trio of Central Methodist consisting of Jean Ten Haken, Millicent Trumbly and Luanne Bolm. Ladies taking part in the program are: Mrs. Stanley Peterson, Bark River; Mrs. Clarence Gerdeen, Mrs. William VanElsen and Mrs. Charles Kaiser. Mrs. Sylvia Glaeser is program chairman.

The offering on this day will make possible two major projects:

1—A new program in Family Planning and Responsible Parenthood to be started by United Church Women, through World Services, in India and West Pakistan.

2—A center for the training of women in the highlands of New Guinea in the South Pacific. United Church Women will build the center; the Australian Trusteeship Administration will staff and equip it; the United Church Women will provide scholarships to bring women to the center.

A Kiddie Keep will be held during the meetings.

Dear Corinne:

We have contacted Miss Edna Schappert, the Educational Director of Man-Made Fiber Producers Association, Inc., and here are her instructions:

"Stretch garments can be pressed with either a dry or steam iron at temperatures in the range of 270 degrees-300 degrees F. (SYNTHETIC setting). Trials should be made on a sample to establish the maximum for a particular fabric.

"Press rapidly. Do not leave the iron in one position too long.

"If hotter iron is required for any reason, use pressing cloth and do not allow the iron to come in contact with the fabric.

"Care-and-handling directions on hangtags and labels should, of course, be followed." Can you imagine anyone being so nice to take the time to give this information for us housewives.

Heloise

Letter Of Laughter

Dear Heloise:

How in the world can one small white facial tissue go into so many hundred shreds in an automatic washer when it accidentally goes through the full washing cycle in a batch of colored clothes?

What a revolting development that is on a busy day!

Lila Raihala

Dear Heloise:

Instead of killing insects on walls and leaving a spot, try using adhesive-backed tape.

Just touch the little beast with the sticky side and he can be removed without marking the walls. This, of course, applies to the slower-moving insects.

By folding the tape over, the insects cannot get away.

John Weissen

Dear Heloise:

We had trouble with the controls on electric blankets. I couldn't anchor them in a convenient place, so I proceeded to think Heloise-style, and figured it out.

The controls had hooks to hang over the bed, but would not fit our headboard.

We bought small drawer handles that almost matched the drawer handles on our bedside tables. I put them on the side of our night tables and hung the controls on them.

Now the controls are much easier to operate and see. Also, they look nice, without harming the tables.

Dollie M.

Dear Heloise:

I discovered a quick and easy way to wash my little figurines and whatnots.

I use those little cotton-tipped sticks—either home-made or purchased.

I also use them for cleaning my glass frogs that get so dirty. For years, I spent many hours trying to clean the frogs, until I finally thought of the swabs and found them a real time-saver.

A Reader

Dear Heloise:

In answer to a question from one of your readers concerning additional uses for a punch bowl, I have used my glass bowl successfully as a salad bowl for a large tossed salad.

I have also used it to serve those wonderful low-calorie raw vegetables as hors d'oeuvres.

It makes a very colorful display, with celery, radishes, carrot curls, olives, cauliflower-ettes, etc. placed over a mound of ice in the bowl, each adding its own bit of interest and color.

Estelle Barton

Dear Heloise:

My baby wears ribbons in her hair all the time.

I haven't the time to iron them, or a place to keep them smooth. So I wash them out in the basin and smooth them out (shiny side down) on the mirror in her room.

They dry there nice and smooth, and stay on the mirror until peeled off.

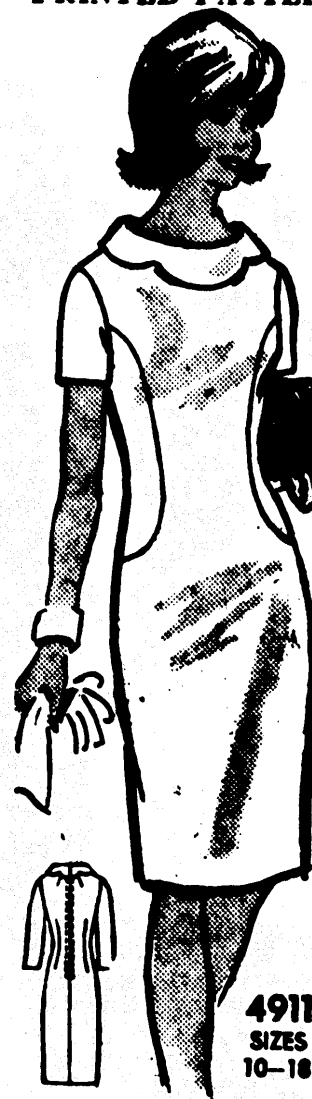

Now, when I go to the closet to get her a dress, the matching ribbons are right there on the full-length mirror on the closet door.

Try it!

Millie Olson Installed As Worthy Matron

Installation of R. C. Hathaway Chapter 49 OES took place Saturday Oct. 29, with Margaret Ebbeson Jr., Past Matron, opening the Chapter. Mrs. Delia Peterson took charge of the installation ceremony. The chapter room was decorated with a large star of the East made by the Worthy Matron, Millie Olson's father.

A large arrangement of white mums, red carnations and red, white and blue ribbons, the colors chosen for the year stood in front of the dais. The new silver cup dedicated to Electa was received for the chapter by Dorothy Olson. Worthy Matron, Millie Olson, was presented a dozen long stemmed red roses from her officers. Mr. Olson escorted her to the East. The reception table was adorned with a high center piece of white mums, red carnations and a small blue lilac flower. Silver candelabra were used with silver serving dishes. Mrs. Shirley Larson was at the silver service and Kay Nelson served punch. Mrs. Marilyn Anderson was in charge of the guest book.

About 175 people attended the ceremonies including Mr. and Mrs. Lane Inmann, Worthy Patron from Weckewure Chapter, Kalamazoo and Mr. and Mrs. Olson's daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Inmann of Kalamazoo.

Fry Chicken For Top Sunday Fare

Fried chicken, giblet gravy, mashed potatoes and garden vegetables—can you beat that old-fashioned all-American menu? Oh yes, we almost forgot to include hot rolls, lettuce and tomato salad, fresh peach ice cream and angel food cake. Millions of Americans have been raised on that Sunday dinner menu. Let's hope millions more will be that lucky.

Most any chicken in your supermarket and all chicken that has crossed a state line has been thoroughly examined and approved for wholesomeness and usually graded for quality by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service. The USDA inspection mark and grade shield are on the package. Americans now eat 33 pounds of chicken a year, per capita, compared to about 18 pounds just after World War II. The figure continues to rise. Broiler-fryers represent over 88 per cent of all chicken eaten in the United States.

FRIED CHICKEN-GIBLET GRAVY
1 broiler-fryer cut into serving pieces
3/4 cup flour
1 tablespoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
3/4 cup peanut oil
3 tablespoons water
1 cup chicken stock, from giblets
1 cup milk or cream
To prepare: Cook giblets in boiling salted water until tender. Drain and cut into pieces. Reserve cooking water for use in gravy. Add salt and pepper to flour and roll chicken pieces in seasoned flour. Heat peanut oil in heavy fry pan and add floured chicken pieces. Brown chicken slowly on both sides. Reduce heat, cover pan and cook about 45 minutes, or until chicken is tender. Remove chicken from fry pan and keep warm while preparing gravy. Giblet Gravy: Pour cooking fat into cup, measure out 3 tablespoons of drippings and return to fry pan. Blend in 3 tablespoons of remaining seasoned flour, and cook, stirring constantly until mixture bubbles. Add 1 cup chicken stock and 1 cup milk or cream. Continue cooking and stirring until gravy thickens. Add cut up giblets and cook on additional 3 minutes or until giblets are heated. Add additional salt and pepper as desired. About 4 servings.

Varnum Reports On Marathon

Campaign Brings Fun, Too

BY ROSE LACHAPPELLE

Last April a 33-year-old Manistique social studies teacher, Charles H. Varnum, announced he would be a candidate on the Republican ticket for the 107th District representative post in the Legislature. Now, after visits to more than 15,000 homes in the district extending west to Escanaba from Sault Ste. Marie, he is entering the wind-up of an ardent campaign.

Varnum serves as a member of the Michigan Athletic Board and as such comes in contact with numerous promotion groups and athletes. Perhaps taking his cue from them, he has waged a vigorous battle to unseat his opponent, Democrat Einar Erlandson of Escanaba.

In addition to his direct door-to-door campaign he has filled numerous speaking engagements and has been aided by a Volunteers for Varnum group of youths and adults.

Since June 10, Varnum has campaigned steadily and before that he was at it on weekends, prior to school dismissal. He is on leave of absence from teaching assignments to campaign. He is a member of the Manistique City Council and mayor pro tem, and has continued these activities during the campaign period.

With the campaign now in wind-up phase, Varnum says "I've worked too hard and long not to do a good job in Lansing when I get there. The door-to-door visits, which I felt were the best way to meet the people and get to know their needs and problems, have been very gratifying."

"The four basic issues of industrial development, Mackinac Bridge toll removal, tourism expansion and education have been stressed. The bridge toll removal and industrial development have most interested voters. I've spoken before many groups, including PTA, Jaycees and labor unions."

"This campaign has been a tremendous educational experience and I've enjoyed every minute of it," Varnum said. There have been amusing incidents. In Escanaba a woman, when given a card by Varnum in street-visiting told him "I hope you don't have the trouble I did trying to find a house when we moved here. You should have seen the places they showed us." Varnum had told her he was running for a seat in the House (of Representatives). She apparently thought he was house hunting.

In Newberry, where he had spoken of campaign finances, a woman came afterwards and said "You know Varnum and Griffin are our two poorest candidates." When Varnum noted he hoped she meant that in a financial way, she red-facedly agreed.

Xmas Wish Book Offers Ski Slope At Only $100.00

NEW YORK (AP)—If you're dreaming of a white Christmas, Santa can take care of it for you—with no snow to shovel—for $100.00.

That's the price tag on a backyard ski slope suggested this year by Neiman-Marcus, the Dallas department store with Texas-size ideas for Christmas.

The slope is 121 feet long and 25 feet wide. It has a plastic surface that skis like snow, but there is nothing to shovel.

The ski slope is only one gift idea from the millions of Christmas catalogs now in the mails.

Sears, Roebuck & Co. sent out 12 million catalogs and Montgomery Ward & Co. 6 million.

Neiman - Marcus also offers his and her bathtubs - marble-topped, gold faucets and $4,000 a pair.

Some stores are thinking little this year. Spencer Gifts has a thumb - size radio for $1.98. Hammacher Schlemmer offers a three-inch television set—$150.

For the surfer, Ward's has a sterling silver surfer's cross (proclaiming "I am a surfer") for $1.99.

F.A.O. Schwarz, New York's Fifth Avenue toy store offers some little machines to help you through the holidays—things like a diet computer ($25) and a detect-a-drunk, complete with balloons to see if it is safe for you to drive home ($5).

Litter Cost Rises

LANSING (AP)—The cost of picking up litter along state roads has more than doubled in five years, says the Michigan Highway Commission. The bill came to $322,000 in 1961 and to $743,000 in the year ended June 30, it said.

Two Injured

State Police report cars driven by Gloria Vallier, 19 of Gulliver and Charles Aubin, 19 of Saginaw collided on US-2 in Mueller township at 7:45 p.m. Monday. Two passengers in the Vallier car, Joanne Vallier, 4 and Allan Price, 6 had slight injuries. Mrs. Vallier was given notice to appear for improper left turn.

Briefly Told

A story hour will be held Saturday at 11:30 a.m. in the library. Children 8 and older are invited.

State Police ticketed Herbert D. Kolenda, Pound, Wis., speeding and Arthur E. Williams, Ithaca, improper overtaking and passing.

Hospital

Admitted to Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital were Merle Bowman, Pat Rogers, Nancy Clement, Lloyd Ayotte, Beth Beaudin, Mollie Linden, Walter Welch and Dorothy Cook. Nicholas Clish was discharged.

State Police said names of five boys involved in the pulling down of a flagpole at Rapid River high school have been turned over to school authorities. The boys all were students, troopers said.

Arthur E. Massey, 23, of Munising, was sentenced to up to 90 days in the Delta County jail when arraigned on two State Police charges Tuesday by Justice Ross Davis. Massey pleaded guilty to tampering with an automobile and also to being drunk and disorderly. He was arrested in Rapid River at 2:45 a. m. Tuesday, troopers said. Davis sentenced him to 60 days in jail on the tampering charge and ordered him to pay a $50 fine plus costs of $430 for being drunk and disorderly or spend another 30 days in jail.

State Police are investigating breaking and entering at a cabin in Nahma Township. Entry was reported by George Jones of Ensign, who was caring for the cabin for owner Mervin Finch of Cedar Springs, Mich. Troopers said entry was gained sometime in the past month. It has not been determined if anything is missing.

A car driven by John F. Carlson, Perkins, struck a deer on County Rd. 420 in Escanaba Township at 7:05 a. m. Tuesday, State Police report.

Sgt. Wilbert Treichel, commander of the Michigan State Police Post, is chairman of the local drive. Mrs. Pat D'Arcy will direct the residential canvass beginning late this afternoon.

Group captains assisting in the canvass are Mrs. William Swenson, Mrs. James Damitz and Mrs. Donald Fothergill. William Swenson, chairman of the business section reports that the area has been canvassed and Stpt. Wallace Cameron reports the educational canvass has been completed.

Youth Injured In Car Rollover

Jack Deacon, 18, of Rte. 1, Escanaba, was hospitalized Tuesday night after one of several traffic accidents which kept State Police busy in Delta County.

Deacon was the only person who suffered other than minor injuries, troopers said.

He was taken to St. Francis Hospital by ambulance after his car left County Rd. 413 in Wells Township, skidded and rolled over. He was reported in good condition today. Troopers said he was ticketed for violation of the basic speed law. Louise A. Blanchette, 36, of Rte. 1, Escanaba, was ticketed also for violation of the basic speed law after her car ran into the rear of a car driven by Vernon Vieu, 25, of Rte. 1, Bark River, at the Chicago & North Western overpass on U. S. 2 and 41 in Escanaba. The accident happened at 10:08 a. m.

Lois A. Fry, 17, of 422 S. 10th St., Escanaba, escaped serious injury when she lost control of her car and skidded off Memory Lane and struck a tree at 6:20 p. m. She was ticketed for violation of the basic speed law.

Mrs. Harold Gagnon, 28, Rte. 1, Bark River, was issued a summons for driving left of center and no proof of insurance after a minor accident on U. S. 2 and 41 at 8:15 p. m. in Masonville Township, and Lawrence Mackiewicz, 46, Bark, was given a summons for no proof of insurance after a minor two-car accident at 6:20 p. m. in front of the Red Owl Store in Perkins.

Troopers reported that there is snow and ice on roads to the north in the Marquette area this morning, but that highways east toward the Mackinac Bridge are clear.

Other traffic tickets issued Tuesday went to Catherine Smith, 1707 Lake Shore Dr., Escanaba, speeding; and Lawrence Lewis, 1108 Sheridan Rd., Escanaba, and David Robinson, 585 N. 18th St., Gladstone, both for stop sign violations.

GHS Students Attend Human Resources Meet

Three Gladstone High School students will attend the Human Resources Council meeting at the Catherine Bonifas Hall of Bay De Noc Community College Friday.

Linda Rockburg, Jack Van Horn and Blake Cowen have been selected to take part in the meeting, which will deal with Breaking the Communication Barrier between parents and children. During the morning session the students and adults will attempt to pinpoint the reasons for the breakdown in communications which often exist in the home and school and in the afternoon the group will attempt to find a solution. David R. Bell, of Temple University, Philadelphia, will chair the meeting and Lyle Plowman, of Escanaba, is in charge of arrangements.

Family Enrichment Program Saturday

First Lutheran Church will offer a Family Enrichment Program for couples beginning Saturday at 7:30 p. m. at the church. The Rev. Reuben Carlson will moderate the discussion and he urges any interested couples in the community to attend.

The program was introduced by Urban Steinmetz at a recent P. T. A. meeting and much interest has been shown to date. Recorded lectures and group discussions will assist in dealing with common problems arising in most marriages such as financial responsibility, income, occupation, rearing children and the whole realm of everyday relationships with each other and other families. Interested couples are asked to call Pastor Carlson if they wish to attend.

Covenant Women Sponsor Birthday Social On Sunday

Covenant Women of Evangelical Covenant Church will sponsor their annual Birthday Social at the church Thursday beginning at 8 p. m.

The program, arranged by Mrs. Carl Olson and Mrs. E. C. Olson, will include vocal solos by The Rev. James Swan, of Escanaba, a flute duet by Kathy Beevar and Carolyn Olson and a reading by Mrs. Alcott Erickson.

A social hour will follow the program with tables decorated in the birthday motif of each calendar month. A birthday lunch will be served and the public is invited to attend.

Marquette really put the wood to the Menominee Maroons in their 69th M&M grid battle last weekend. The Maroons shredded Menominee's defenses for 323 yards on the ground and hit on 5 of 10 passes for an additional 134. The Maroons, undefeated against seven previous foes, were limited to 73 yards rushing and 95 passing.

An undefeated record in Upper Peninsula prep football competition gets harder to come by each year. This is the third year in the last five that not a single U.P. team has fashioned a perfect season record. Before that, in a stretch from 1956 to 1961, there was at least one undefeated school in the Peninsula for six straight seasons.

An announcement from the University of Wisconsin sports publicity department today confirms Coach Don Pfofenhauer's impression of the outstanding performance turned in by former Gladstone athlete Tom Domes against Michigan. The 6 foot 2 inch, 234 pound junior tackle earned "Savage" award from Coach Milt Bruhn. Domes made nine solo tackles, assisted in three others, blocked a pass at the line of scrimmage and didn't miss a single tackle. Domes had previously shared the coveted award with linebacker Bob Richter following an early game against Iowa.

It is an accepted fact that the home team in basketball has a distinct advantage over the visiting club. The advantage has been translated into approximately seven points on the scoreboard. It would appear that the home team in football also had a better-than-even chance for victory in the Upper Peninsula this fall. An examination of the season results shows that the host teams scored 92 victories against 64 defeats and 9 ties.

Following the final week of the season, here are the Upper Peninsula teams which were rated in this week's state Associated Press poll. In Class A, Soo was listed 14th and Marquette 17th. In Class B, Menominee was ranked 9th with Calumet, Negaunee, Ishpeming, Ironwood, Iron River in the top 30. In Class C, St. Ignace was rated 7th with L'Anse, Engadine and DeTour in the top 25.

Michigan Tech gridders established 11 team and individual records in their 61-8 victory over Northwestern last Saturday. Jay Dismore, quarterback from Iron Mountain, set a couple of new standards when he completed six passes for 239 yards and five touchdowns. Halfback Tom Camarich gained 77 yards in 11 carries to become Tech's all-time rushing leader with 1,499 in his career.

Steve Oman, Escanaba's All-U.P. griddy last fall, played the entire game on offense and a quarter on defense for the University of Illinois freshman team against Purdue last week. Oman is a 210 pound guard and is regarded as an outstanding candidate for the Illini varsity squad next fall.

Calumet will become a member of the Copper Country Conference in football next fall, while Baraga is reported dropping the sport after playing out a junior varsity schedule this season. Calumet is already a member of the CCC in basketball and plays most of the conference games in football each year. The conference voted to grant the Copper Kings a football membership at its annual fall meeting last week.

Hockey, a new dimension in sports at Lake Superior State College (formerly Soo Tech), will begin next month when the Lakers face a pair of outstanding Canadian Soo junior hockey clubs. The Lakers have several other tentative opponents on tap, according to Paul Ripley, college public relations director.

Tech Halfback Leading Scorer In State Ranks

By The Associated Press
Fred Hall of Michigan Tech scored three touchdowns and two extra points to wrest the Michigan collegiate scoring lead from Bob Apisa of Michigan State.

Hall led his team to a 61-8 out of Northwestern with his points. Apisa collected one touchdown against Northwestern as MSU won 20-0.

Both men have nine touchdowns, but Hall's extra points give him a 57-54 lead over Apisa.

Pete Yorloda of Adrian was shut out for a third straight weekend, but remained in the top ten, tied for third with Tim Majerle of Western Michigan at 48 points. Majerle got two touchdowns Saturday.

Jim Detwiler of Michigan scored twice as the Wolverines downed Wisconsin 28-17 and holds fifth place with 42 points.

Michigan State remained the only undefeated team in Michigan collegiate football with seven straight victories.

Western Michigan has won six and lost one, Albion stands at 5-2.

Michigan's 17 collegiate teams are 62-52-3 over all and 38-27-3 against out-of-state foes. Michigan teams tied outsiders twice during the weekend, but didn't lose a game to out-of-state teams.

Michigan Tries Two Fullbacks

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Michigan coaches tested a senior letterman and a sophomore Tuesday as possible stand-ins for injured, veteran fullback Dave Fisher.

Senior Tim Radigan of Lansing and John Reynolds of Grosse Pointe practiced as fullbacks with the Wolverines.

Fisher, of Kettering, Ohio, underwent further X-Rays to determine the full extent of strain on the left shoulder muscle injured in Michigan's 28-17 victory over Wisconsin last weekend.

Defensive backfield coach Don James said if Fisher is unable to play against Illinois on Saturday, it will weaken the backfield.

The Wolverines held a general practice session Tuesday for less than two hours.

Packers Nearing Record Stealing Enemy Aerials

The Green Bay Packers led the Detroit Lions 7-0 but rookie Karl Sweetan's passing had the Lions moving early in the second period. Now it was third and eight on the Detroit 49 and Sweetan went back to pass, looking for Gail Cogdill near the left sideline.

The ball headed for Cogdill at the Packer 35 but a funny thing happened on the way. Green Bay linebacker Ray Nitschke caught it. Immediate-

Garrett Great Rookie Griddy

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Mike Garrett of Kansas City, a great instinctive runner who started on the sandlots of Los Angeles, has established himself as a top candidate for Rookie of the Year in the American Football League.

At the same time, he is destroying the myth that Heisman Trophy winners can't make good in pro ball. In eight games he has scored six touchdowns, four of them on runs of 79, 77, 61 and 42 yards.

His seven-yard rushing average is best in the AFL and he is the league's No. 4 rusher with 405 yards. He does something no other man in the top 10 rushers is doing — returning kickoffs and punts full time. He also catches passes, throws them well and is an excellent blocker.

"Without doubt, he is most deserving of Rookie of the Year honors," said Coach Hank Stram. "He has made a tremendous contribution."

A lot of people in pro football thought Garrett would never make it.

"There was a mistaken idea I was a little scabcat or something," Garrett said. "I never doubted that I could make it. I'm strong and I play at about 200 pounds although I'm 5-foot-9. None of it is fat."

"On a lot of plays I'm still on my feet when I'm stopped."

In five categories, Garrett has gained 771 yards on 85 plays, or 9.1 yards every time he has touched the ball.

At Southern California, he gained 3,221 yards rushing in three years, an NCAA career record.

Spurrier Owns Valuable Foot

By The Associated Press
Steve Spurrier's right arm still is Florida's most valuable football property, but the Gators are cashing in on his right foot too.

The Florida quarterback, who completed 27 passes against Auburn last Saturday before kicking a 40-yard field goal that gave the unbeaten Gators a 30-27 victory, was named The Associated Press' Back of the Week today for the second time this season.

Spurrier passed for 259 yards and a touchdown, ran for another score, punted five times for a 46-yard average and booted the winning field goal with two minutes to play.

In leading the Gators to seven straight victories, the versatile senior has hit on 117 of 177 pass attempts — a 66 per cent completion percentage — for 1,397 yards and 14 touchdowns.

"I can't award Steven the Heisman Trophy," says Florida Coach Ray Graves, "but if I could I'd give him two of them. He is absolutely the greatest clutch athlete I've ever seen."

Floyd Little will break loose for at least one touchdown run.

It was learned that Louis J. Rouse, a New Orleans oilman-financier, has lined up enough support from NFL club owners to block any other applicant.

The new club will be given special concessions enabling it to draft men from the college ranks and also from other NFL clubs to stock its roster. However, details have not been set.

Rozelle said no one has the inside track in the bidding for ownership of the New Orleans club.

"We are going to immediately downs in the Packers' last 22 games after only five scores in his first six years as the Green Bay boss. "All the fellows in our secondary have good speed and know how to run with the ball. That rush we're getting (Willie Davis, Ron Kostelnik, Henry Jordan and Lionel Aldridge) puts a lot of pressure on the passer. When he has to throw over people he can't see as well."

Work Pays Off

Herb Adderly, the All-Pro defensive halfback, adds: "All seven of us played on offense in high school or college or both. Nitschke and Lee Roy Caffey were fullbacks and Dave Robinson, the other line-backer, was an end. The deep backs (Willie Wood, Bob Jeter, Tom Brown and Adderly) were running backs. We don't play the ball any more than we ever did — it's still a big gamble because you're risking seven points against you every time you take a chance."

"Once we intercept we have only one thought — to rally to the runner," says Wood. "As soon as one of us gets the ball, everyone else is supposed to start blocking. We've worked hard on that the last couple years and it is showing results. How many teams have you seen where guys stand around and watch after a pass is intercepted?"

Detroit receiver Pat Studstill has one more idea. "It's those line-backers," he says. "They're all 10 feet tall and have arms 10 feet long. And, worst of all, they always seem to be in the right place at the right time."

Cincinnati Eyes Grid Franchise

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — With awarding of the National Football League's 16th franchise to New Orleans, former pro coach Paul Brown set out today to get an American League team for Cincinnati.

And Pete Rozelle, the NFL head boss who will become commissioner of the merged National and American leagues in 1970, indicated Cincinnati has the inside track for the new AFL team, scheduled to begin play in 1968.

Brown, ex-coach of the NFL Cleveland Browns, said in Cleveland Tuesday night that "I believe we can have the franchise for 1968 if assurance is given that a new stadium (in Cincinnati) will be ready in time."

Brown had sought the NFL franchise for Cincinnati. Another group that had been seeking the NFL team indicated it also would be interested in an AFL team. That group is headed by John Wiethe, a former University of Cincinnati basketball coach.

Announcement of awarding of the new AFL team is expected soon, Rozelle said Tuesday by telephone from New Orleans.

Claassen Picks Michigan State By Big Margin

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

NEW YORK (AP) — Here's hoping for a quick recovery from the worst weekend of the season with 18 losses among the 56 games that reached a decision for a paltry 679 average.

The forecast for this Saturday's top college football games:

Notre Dame over Pittsburgh: The Irish are awesomely strong, the Panthers woefully weak.

Michigan State over Iowa: The Broadway betting gentry says Michigan State will win by 28 points. The Spartans are that good.

UCLA over Washington: Gary Behan of the Bruins rates as one of the three top quarterbacks of the season and the Huskies have no one who can match him.

Southern California over California: Everybody mentions the Trojan offense but their defense has allowed only 40 points in seven games. California has allowed 143.

Tennessee over Chattanooga: Not in the same league.

Harvard over Princeton: Bobby Leo and Vic Gatto provide the Crimson with the best running attack in the Ivy League.

Brotherly Love Ends Saturday

CHICAGO (AP) — Brotherly love momentarily ends Saturday when Illinois faces Michigan at Ann Arbor in Big Ten football.

On opposing sides of the field will be Wolverine Coach Bump Elliott and Illini Coach Pete Elliott.

Pete's Illini never have defeated Bump's Wolverines. This will be their sixth meeting.

"There's no family squabble connected with this game," Bump told the Chicago football writers by phone Tuesday. "We get along real well. The fact that we've defeated Illinois the last five years when Pete has been there is just one of those things. We've been lucky. I'm certain Pete and Illinois want to change things and get the record turned around."

Bump conceded that Michigan has played "reasonably well in the last couple of weeks" in defeating Minnesota 49-0 and Wisconsin 28-17.

Michigan and Illinois each is 3-2 in the conference.

Asked if any thoughts of a possible Rose Bowl trip were in his mind, Bump replied: "Too many things have to happen for such a possibility. We must win all our remaining games (Illinois, Wisconsin and Ohio State) and then see what happens in the rest of the conference."

San Francisco climbed into a first-place tie with Detroit on the strength of the triumph, while the Bulls slumped into fourth place, 1 1/2 games ahead of last place Los Angeles.

Berlinski Gets Halfback Duty; Apisa Sits Out

EAST LANSING (AP) — Indications mounted Tuesday that a knee sprain will keep Bob Apisa, Michigan State's leading ground gainer, out of MSU's game against Iowa Saturday.

Apisa attended practice in sweat clothes and ran little while sophomore Regis Cavender worked in the fullback position in play polishing drills. But the injury to the Hawaiian fullback, who has run 444 yards in 84 carries, is not considered serious.

Starting halfback Dwight Lee also ran some plays at fullback, with reserve Dick Berlinski moving into Lee's position.

Also in sweat clothes and suffering from a knee sprain was Keith Redd, the center for kicking plays. Kick team center assignments likely will go to Ron Ranieri in the Iowa contest.

MSU will be seeking its eighth straight victory against the Hawkeyes, who are in the Big Ten basement with a 1-4 conference record. MSU is 5-0 in the Big Ten.

Big Ten Football Season Is Whacky

CHICAGO (AP) — Except for the consistency of Michigan State, the current Big Ten football race has to go down as one of the whackiest in history. It could get wackier.

Bogged down by a 16-16 record against nonconference foes and with Michigan State ineligible for the bowl bid because of the no-repeat clause, the Rose Bowl picture remains muddled as ever so far as the Big Ten is concerned.

Purdue and Minnesota, currently running one-two for the bowl bid, "can't afford to look ahead" to their Nov. 12 meeting in their coaches' words.

Jack Mollenkopf of Purdue and Murray Warmath of Minnesota made this clear to the Chicago Football Writers via telephone Tuesday.

Both teams hit the road against improving opponents this week and if both lose, the run for the roses could turn into a seven-team race with two weeks remaining.

Purdue is at Wisconsin and Minnesota at Northwestern. Aside from Michigan State, only Ohio State and Iowa have been mathematically eliminated. Purdue holds the upper hand with a 3-1 record to Minnesota's 2-1-1. The other five teams all have two losses.

Purdue and Minnesota have won two of their last three games. By contrast, Wisconsin and Northwestern have split even in their last three games. The two teams tied each other 3-3.

If both Minnesota and Purdue win Saturday, they'll get their showdown battle the following week. If both lose, West Coast schools will have to spread themselves all over the Midwest in the final two games of the season.

Hawks Handed First Defeat

By The Associated Press
Great things have been forecast for the young and hustling Boston Bruins, who gave the National Hockey League-leading Chicago Black Hawks a swipe of the claw Tuesday night.

The Bruins tossed a stonewall defense and the sharp goaltending of Bernie Parent against the Hawks to walk off with a 3-2 victory.

The loss was the first in five games for the Hawks, who showed the effects of a six-day layoff. The triumph enabled the Bruins to bounce out of a last-place tie into third place, one point behind Montreal and three behind the Hawks.

Only one game is scheduled Wednesday in the NHL, and that finds Montreal at Toronto.

Koufax Honored Again

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It is true that Sandy Koufax was not exactly thunderstruck when advised he had won the Cy Young Award for the third time.

Reached at his bachelor's villa Tuesday in suburban Sausalito, the superb southpaw was, however, delighted. The vote was unanimous, just as in the previous years, by the Baseball Writers of America.

The award as baseball's best pitcher to the Los Angeles Dodgers' hero amounts to an unprecedented event. No hurler had ever won it twice, as did Sandy in 1963 and 1965, much less three times.

"I'm thrilled," said Koufax, who may have been groping for words different from his reactions on the previous award occasions.

It's a great honor to be selected more than once, and it's an even bigger thrill to win it two years in a row.

"Especially," he continued, "since we have some great pitchers in the league—in both leagues, that is."

Koufax paused, as if reflecting on the innocent, momentary omission of the American League, and quickly added with a chuckle:

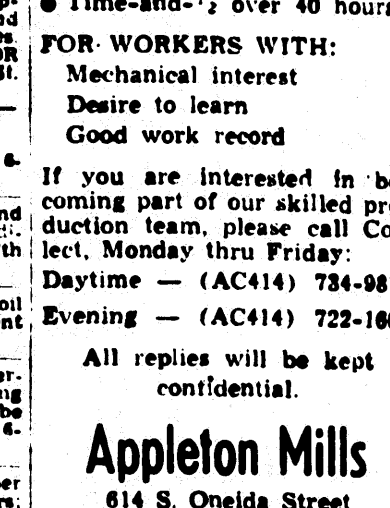

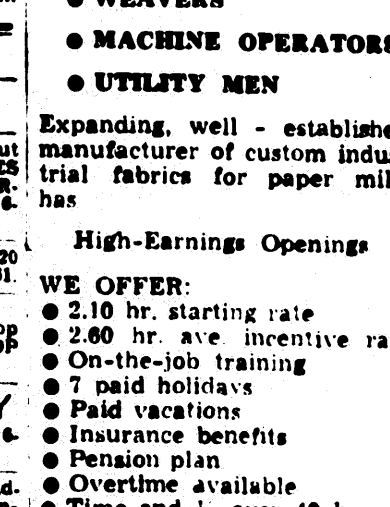

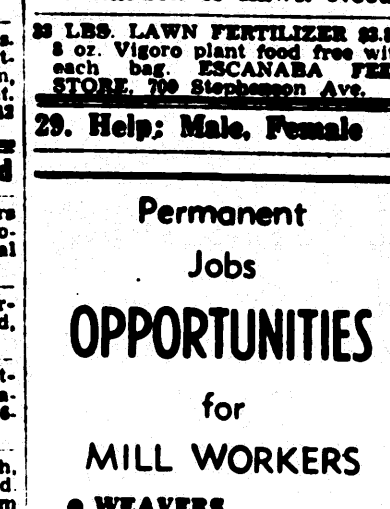

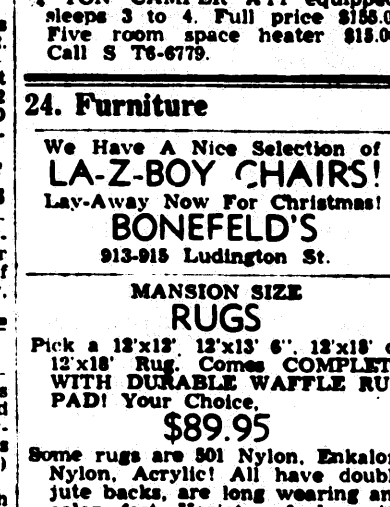

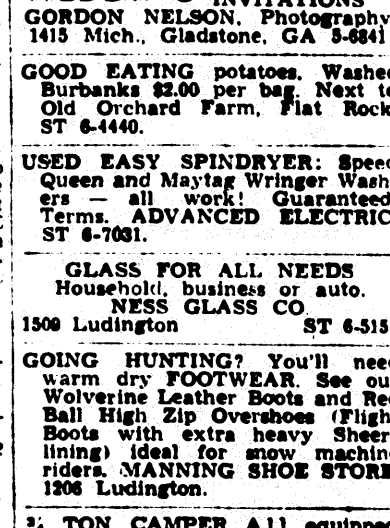

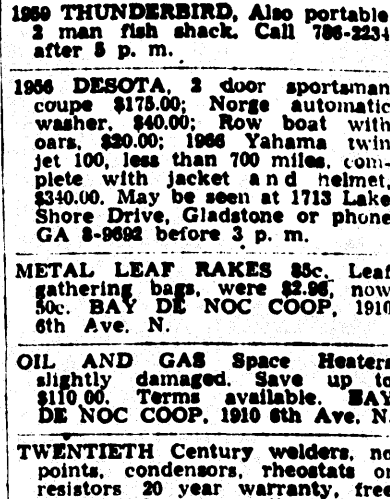

"The way Baltimore pitched against us, maybe they should split the award up between their pitchers."

The Baltimore pitchers, you'll recall, slew the Dodgers four straight in the recent World Series.

Queried about rumors that he may retire from baseball because of his famous, and infamous, ailing left elbow, Koufax merely said he has given no thought one way or another about his future plans.

The 30-year-old Koufax, who had a 27-9 record, may be the last Cy Young Award winner as it is now designed, covering both leagues.

Johnson Trip World Reaction Varies Widely

By The Associated Press

World reaction to President Johnson's trip and the Manila conference runs the gamut from optimism through doubt to pessimism.

This is evident from an Associated Press survey of capitals not on the Johnson itinerary, and from a cross-section of opinion at the United Nations.

There Frank Aiken, foreign minister of Ireland, told a reporter: "I would say it appears to have been a very successful trip for the President."

As for the prospects for improvement in the Southeast Asia situation, Aiken said "the trip has provided a chance for the ministers to coordinate their views."

At the other end of the opinion scale, Tanzanian Ambassador J. W. Mallela observed: "As far as clearing the path to peace, the trip has accomplished nothing."

This African delegate added: "The communique issued in Manila means very little. What concerns us now is not what is going to happen after the fighting stops but how to stop the fighting."

Ambassador Jose Pinera of Chile said: "I don't think it had any direct contribution to peace. I don't think President Johnson had that idea in mind. It was an effort of countries participating in Viet Nam to close ranks. From that point it appears successful."

There has been no official British reaction to Manila, but privately officials in London have hailed Johnson's efforts in Asian diplomacy, mainly for encouragement to Asians to join in setting up their own defense system.

The magazine Economist commented: "Before any stable system could be built around the periphery of China it was necessary for the United States to show that it was in earnest. Whatever verdict history eventually passes on Mr. Johnson's policy in Viet Nam, he has shown that the United States is willing to exert its influence in Asia as it is in Europe."

Big Cat Sighted In County

By DAVE ANDREWS

Move over Sault Ste. Marie, Delta County has a "mystery cat" too.

And Joseph Vogt, conservation department game biologist in the Escanaba district, has plastered casts of its tracks to prove it.

Vogt confirmed Tuesday that a large cat has been spotted in Delta County on at least five occasions by reliable people since last August.

"It's a big cat, there's no question about that," Vogt said. "I can't definitely say it was a cougar (mountain lion), but if it was colored the way it was reported with the long tail, I don't know what else it could be."

Skeptical At First

Vogt, who was stationed at Sault Ste. Marie from 1955 to 1959 when the "mystery cat" stories started in Chippewa County, said he was skeptical when the first report came in of a sighting on the Stonington Peninsula last August. Since, then, however, he has become more convinced.

Especially when one of the reports was filed by Officer Frank Opolka of Escanaba.

Opolka and Edward Konkel of Bark River reported seeing "a large cat" at the intersection of the Truex Rd. and County Rd. 416 near the Cornell Methodist Church about 9:30 p. m. Saturday, Oct. 19. The men, who were on routine patrol, said the animal crossed County Rd. 416 and they watched it for 10 to 15 seconds before it disappeared.

Konkel said the animal had a long tail, was long-slung to the ground and has big haunches. He estimated the weight between 100 and 150 pounds.

Cat Made Tracks

Armed with Opolka's report, Vogt went to the scene the following day and lifted fresh tracks of a large cat from a newly plowed field.

"There is no doubt the tracks were cat tracks," he reports.

"We've got an open mind on the subject," he continued. "The tracks are good evidence, but I wouldn't say definitely, but I'm inclined to believe it's a cougar."

The sightings on the Stonington Peninsula were followed, in sequence, by a report of the cat north of Rapid River, then at Brampton and later twice in the Cornell area. Last Saturday night, a similar report was made by a Detroit man who said he saw the animal on M-94 between Chatham and Forest Lake in Alger County.

Reports Independent

Vogt said it is possible that the reports could have all been on the same animal, although he allowed that there may be more than one.

What gives credibility to the reports, he pointed out, is that all were made by persons independent of each other. None of the persons making their report knew of the other reports.

"This is one of the reasons we've kept it quiet," he said. "As soon as news comes out, then everybody sees it."

Vogt said as far as he knows, however, there have been no livestock losses reported in the district.

"This is something that bothers me a little bit," he said. "But then again I guess the cat could find enough food in the woods to live on."

Tawny Colored

Some of the reported sightings have been in daylight.

The cougar or mountain lion is tawny colored and grows to a total length of about 7½ feet, including a three-foot tail, which distinguishes the animal from a bobcat or lynx. It will weigh between 80 and 200 pounds.

Vogt said the nearest area known to have cougars is northern Minnesota. He said it seems unlikely that a cougar from that area could have come all this way without being seen, but that it might be possible. He also said that someone might have brought a cougar into the area and it escaped.

Freak Train
Crash Kills
An Engineer

DOVER, N.J. (AP) — Archibald M. Speer, a 67-year-old train engineer nearing retirement, was killed in his cab Tuesday by a 200-ton runaway switch-engine unit.

"He must have gone through the tortures of hell when he saw that train coming," remarked a spectator as workmen began clearing the mangled wreckage of Speer's four-car passenger train and the double switch engine.

The others aboard the commuter train — two crewmen and six passengers — were injured, none seriously. Authorities began examining the shattered engine unit today to determine why it broke loose, rolled seven miles downhill and thundered into Speer's oncoming train.

Erie Lackawanna Railroad officials and police gave this account of the accident:

The two engines, coupled together, had been parked by a siding at the Port Morris terminal. Their engineer and conductor were not aboard when the unit began rolling.

Gaining momentum, the engines raced along the track at speeds estimated at between 50 to 85 miles an hour. They rolled through Dover before street-crossing guard gates could be lowered and at least one automobile was nearly hit.

At the Salem Avenue overpass, they slammed into the westbound passenger train which was nearing the end of its run at the Dover station.

Speer, of Clifton, N.J., a 45-year veteran of the line, apparently was killed instantly.

Road Workers
Pick Teamsters
For Bargaining

The Teamsters Union, Local No. 328, has designated the collective bargaining representative of the employees of the Schoolcraft County Road Commission, it is reported by the Teamsters Union.

The vote was 29 to 3 in an election conducted by the Michigan Labor Mediation Service on Thursday, Oct. 27, at Schoolcraft County Garages at Manistique and Seney.

California Fire Kills Ten Men

SYLMAR, Calif. (AP) — A blast of flames sweeping up a steep hillside snuffed out the lives of 10 firefighters in a crew of 25 battling one of four brush fires in Angeles National Forest.

The men were veterans, known as El Cariso Hotshots from Riverside County who had specialized in combatting the hottest of forest fires in Montana, Idaho, California and Oregon.

But they lost Tuesday to that unpredictable quality of all fires — the wind behind them that kicked up before they could escape.

"It's something every firefighter thinks about—a sudden gust of wind," said U.S. Forest Service spokesman Don Porter in reporting the death toll of a blaze that swept 2,100 acres.

Names of the dead were withheld pending notification of next of kin. Nine of the 15 survivors in the crew were in critical condition at the Los Angeles County General Hospital's Burn Center.

Suppression leaders said the fire was 80 per cent contained early today.

'Copter Crash Kills 3, 19 Hurt

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP) — A helicopter crash on the carrier Guadalcanal left the pilot and crewman uninjured, but sent death-dealing rotor blade fragments shooting across the flight deck of the busy ship.

Twenty-two men were cut down Tuesday by pieces of the 27-foot aluminum blade, some of them more than 100 yards from the crash site. Three men were killed and 19 injured, one critically.

One of the dead was a civilian employee, Manning McCutchen, 44, of Suffolk, a father of four who had come up on the flight deck to watch the helicopter take off. He was struck as he stood near the carrier's control island. The other two victims were members of the Guadalcanal's flight deck crew.

Twelve of the injured were hospitalized, including a civilian workman struck while aboard the carrier Forrestal, berthed across the pier from the Guadalcanal at the Norfolk Naval Shipyard.

Marine Corps Maj. William Whelen of Virginia Beach, the helicopter pilot, and his crewman, Aviation Machinists Mate 1 C. David K. Todd of Shell Lake, Wis., were shaken up but not hurt.

Gen. Ben Lear
Is Dead At 87

MURFREESBORO, Tenn. (AP) — Gen. Ben Lear, who once disciplined some troops for "yoo-hooing" at pretty girls, is dead at 87.

Lear, considered by military men second only to Gen. Douglas MacArthur for his exacting discipline, died Tuesday in Veterans Hospital.

His body was being flown from Nashville to Washington today for burial in Arlington National Cemetery.

The perfectionist four-star general became famous in Tennessee where he commanded the 2nd Army from his Memphis headquarters from Oct. 1, 1940 until his retirement May 31, 1943.

He picked up the title of the "Yoo Hoo general" when he forced a convoy of troops to leave their trucks and march 15 miles on one of the hottest days in two years when they yoo-hoed at girl golfers in shorts on a Memphis course.

His widow, the former Grace Russell of Brackenridge, Mo., survives. Lear married her the day before he sailed for service in the Spanish-American war in 1898.

of Educational Service by the

Escanaba Area Public Schools

In October of 1866, in what was then called Sand Point, our first public school was opened. It was a small, one story frame building with one teacher who was paid $45.00 per month. In the one hundred years since, thousands of changes have been made until today the Escanaba Area Public Schools encompass a vast complex of buildings as well as an immense geographical area.

Today this school system offers one of the finest senior high schools in Michigan, a complete and separate junior high school, four elementary schools in the city limits and five elementary schools in the outlying areas. We have grown from one little school teaching "the three R's" to eleven separate schools that offer everything the student may need from a complete variety of vocational training subjects for both girls and boys to a full line of college preparatory subjects.

It is to our forefathers and their faith in the future, the school leaders and their plans for the present and the people of the Escanaba Area who made all this possible that we dedicate this special section of the Escanaba Daily Press.

ESCANABA AREA PUBLIC SCHOOLS

WE SALUTE YOU

Birth, Boards, Benefactors:

Lemmer Reviews School Century

BY JOHN A. LEMMER
One hundred years ago J. B. Clark, Escanaba Township clerk, gave notice that an election would be held on Sept. 10, 1866, for the citizens to choose one school moderator, one director and one treasurer.

The meeting took place in the office of J. N. Hiller. Ira Buck served as chairman and E. P. Lott, clerk. David Langley was elected moderator of Escanaba's first school board, James Morgan, director, and Samuel Kaufman, treasurer.

The first business acted upon by School District No. 1, Escanaba Township, was giving approval to negotiate the purchase of two lots for a school building. The lots marked by a plaque on the site of the Carnegie Library were purchased in July, 1867, when the Board also set $2,000 as the cost of the building.

E. P. Lott, who later published the Escanaba Tribune, taught the winter term of four months in a rented school house. His salary was $45 a month. The first school tax totaled $300 and that covered salary, rent, repairs, wood and coal.

Miss Emily Dunbar was hired in April, 1867, to teach three months at $35 a month, and her assistant, Miss Goodall was paid $25. McGuffey's Eclectic Readers and Spellers were, of course, the first texts.

Three Graduates

The first meeting of the first Board of Education in the first school-house was held in the spring of 1868. The first nine-month school year was 1868-69 and the budget was $1700. The first teacher to be designated principal was Nelson Leach and that was in 1871. In 1877 Escanaba had its first school superintendent, A. R. Northrup.

There were three graduates in the first graduating class in the two-year high school in 1881, Mary Garner, Nora Keating and Minnie Lott. The first four-year class was graduated in 1888. The high school was first accredited by the University of Michigan in 1894 and by the North Central Association in 1909.

The records are not complete for all of the years since 1866 and we may have missed someone but apparently Northrup was superintendent until 1892 when a man named Hardy succeeded him to be followed a year later by S. S. Beggs. William Fleischer came in 1896, Richard Ewing in 1899 and William Joliffe in 1901.

My memory goes back to F. D. Davis who held the position from 1905 to 1910 when F. E. King took over. He was followed by W. E. Olds in 1919. Ray E. Cheney became superintendent in 1925, John Lemmer in 1935, and Walter Bright in 1959. If our record is complete Luther Barrett became the 13th superintendent in 1964.

Without Salary

Board members are never fully appreciated by citizens and possibly only a school superintendent can realize the contribution they make to a community in giving untold hours in unselfish devotion, in performing thankless tasks, at no salary.

Let me name former members of our Boards of Education who are still living: John Anthony, Arol Beck, Frank O. Beck, Frank Bender, E. G. Bennett, Charles Folio, Dr. Louis Groos, Dr. William Hemes, Dr. Roy Johnson, L. J. Jacobs, Fred LaBranche, Dorothy Lindquist, Jack Manning, Victor Nelson, Dorothy O'Brien, C. Gust Peterson, Claude Tobin and Jack Williams.

Because of the limitation on space I could choose only a few periods or items to dwell upon. One that is of interest is the 1930's for no matter how depressing things may sometimes look now, glancing back to the 30's will make one feel that maybe things are not so bad after all. In April of 1933 one-third of the school taxes totaling about $125,000 were delinquent.

At one board meeting that April, excepting for one vote, the board would have eliminated art, athletics, county normal, home economics, library, music, manual training, the nurse, physical education, special rooms, supervision and transportation. After this narrow escape PTA's rushed letters to the board appealing that nothing like this be done.

Many Benefactors

Salaries were cut 10%. Superintendent Cheney's salary was $4,000 and his contract read that he would receive the same percent increase or deduction that would be given the teachers. The total salary budget for the twenty teachers in senior high school was $28,863.

Just as we not appreciate our board members so too often we don't appreciate and too quickly forget our benefactors. Several years ago I wrote the Testing Service in Princeton, N. J., asking if that organization could set up a program determining the recipients of our scholarships as it does for colleges and universities. Princeton replied that it had no service for high schools and that it was not aware that any high school in the United States had so generous a program.

The first of our scholarship was the H. W. Reade, a gift of $10,000 from Mr. Reade's family. Then the family of Wm. W. Oliver gave $25,000 which was used in the construction of the William W. Oliver Memorial Auditorium.

Later the will of A. J. (Bert) Young provided another $10,000 for scholarships. Other scholarships have been awarded during the past years for one or for a few years but I am referring only to those where a gift was made and the income from the contribution is to be used in perpetuity for scholarships.

Bonifas Gifts

It was in 1942 that Mrs. Catherine Bonifas made her first gift to the Board when she gave $38,000 to enlarge our Junior High School gymnasium and to build a swimming pool underneath. There were objections to this in the neighborhood and by the time a go-ahead signal might have been there, costs had gone up so that the project had to be abandoned.

The Board then established the Catherine Bonifas Intervivos Trust, which is a trust given during the lifetime of the donor, and her additional gifts plus income earned on the investments, brought the Trust up to $101,000.

The Estate of Catherine Bonifas gave $831,788.97 to our school district; $500,000 for a senior high school, $150,000 for

Lemmer Era

John A. Lemmer was Escanaba school superintendent for nearly a quarter of a century. He retired in 1960. Recognition of his role as an educator included the naming of an elementary school for him. His tenure was distinguished by the development of special education programs and the encouragement of private gifts to expand school programs and improve facilities.

special education, $100,000 for a community college, $30,000 for the Technical School, and $50,000 for scholarships.

The board entrusted Harris Trust and Savings Bank of Chicago with the responsibility of investing this money and the fund finally totaled $1,163,907.94. So in addition to the specific bequests made in the will the board bought the land for the senior high school and the John Lemmer school, built the junior high school addition and cafeteria, purchased other properties on the Franklin and Washington School sites, and paid for insurance, taxes, deeds and abstracts.

The first Catherine Bonifas scholarships were awarded in 1949 to graduates of Escanaba and St. Joseph high schools and now to graduates of Holy Name. More than $25,000 has been awarded since 1949.

This is also of interest to Escanaba citizens although it has no place in our school history. The City of Escanaba received $311,786.96 from the Catherine Bonifas Estate for a state building, a city-county building and one for recreation. Our city council acted wisely as did the board. It received circuit court permission to use the full amount to build the state building so that, including interest earned on the original contribution and rentals for office space, there was brought in about $147,000.

Norton Scholarships

Then the building was sold to the state for $250,000. Our city government now has about $280,000 on hand in the Catherine Bonifas Trust Fund, almost as much as it had to begin with. The community now has a state office building which will be enlarged. This does not include the $50,000 given to the county for the county building.

But that is not all. Escanaba schools had another benefactor in John P. Norton, publisher of the Escanaba Daily Press, who left the residue of his estate for scholarships named for his wife, Anna Carroll Norton, a former teacher.

The sale of the Press brought $432,000. The other assets totaled $171,134.27 so the residue amounted to $603,134.27.

This money is also entrusted to Harris Trust and on Aug. 10 of this year amounted to $744,333, a low point in its investment value.

Mr. Norton bequeathed us $603,000. That is now worth $140,000 more. Since 1955 the board has awarded $233,646 in scholarships. We received $603,000; spent $233,000; and have more than $740,000 left. That's good business.

The Changing Look:

Better Education Still The Goal

BACK IN 1864 Escanaba had a two-year High School. Kate Keating (center) was the teacher and the graduates were Nora McLean, Hattie Van Dyke, Clara Hamacher, Joe Chenier, Otto Steinke, Annie Lawrence and Florence Pool. The clothing was obviously 'Sunday best' for the occasion.

Keeping A Noble Tradition..

The Escanaba Daily Press has been devoted to the cause of education since its founding by the late John P. Norton in 1909. (Its founder bequeathed his personal estate to the Escanaba Public School System and it is a large part of the base of the system's scholarship fund of today.)

Panax Corp., which purchased the Escanaba Daily Press this year, as an owner-operator of newspapers, radio stations and television stations, is deeply involved in and deeply dedicated to public enlightenment via mass media communications.

It congratulates the Escanaba Community on the completion of a century of public schooling and on its current enlargement of facilities and program for educational opportunity.

This is the lamp that lights our way. This is the great expression of community confidence and good intention. It is a privilege for us to serve this noble tradition.

I Attended Escanaba Schools In 1936

BY JACK FOSTER
1004 S. 10th St.
Class Of 1936

I graduated from Escanaba High School in 1936, and I pause occasionally to reflect on the outstanding devotion to duty and the interest shown in me by my teachers during what must have been very trying times in those depression laden years. Our educational process never faltered, and I am sure that we received training which was second to none.

Typical of this devotion was the inspiration given me in physics and mathematics by Ed Edick, who always had an extracurricular job of some sort lined up to provide me with some much needed experience. Brad Loveland gave me basics in chemistry, and joked with me until his passing many years after my graduation about leaving my mark on the school, as my lab partner and I truly did as we exploded a hydrogen generator in chemistry lab, sending a shower of glass to leave a lasting indentation in the ceiling of the room. Both of these men, and those other men and women like them, contributed without qualification to an education which has been the means of support for my family.

Since "man does not live by bread alone," one of the really important facets in my life has been my early exposure to music, and along with it, the opportunity to meet and work together with people provided by Paul Bowers and Frank Karas. "R. P." Bowers, as we knew him, gave us a personality to be copied as he conveyed us back and forth to the athletic field, bass drums, tubas and all, in his heavily overworked car, always smiling and ready to make room for another along the way. I am sure that his efforts helped to provide the framework for the band program as we know them today.

A rare opportunity was mine in that I learned to play the cello from Frank Karas, and some twenty years after his passing, I marvel at the extent of his influence even today. He took us everywhere that he could find to play, in string trios, quartets, sextets . . . anything to give us public exposure to further our training and to give us confidence. Out of it came not only a fine hobby, but a new awareness of responsibility towards others, and, further, a lasting admiration for a man who put more than just the essential time into his teaching job.

I enjoyed my school years, and I don't recall even being particularly conscious of world problems around us. It must be that they were faded into the background by all of my teachers and friends, who put the emphasis on education of their charges, many times at personal expense and sacrifice. To all of them, and those in administrative jobs and other activities . . . "Thanks."

Congratulations...

THE ESCANABA AREA PUBLIC SCHOOLS ON THEIR

Centennial

A centennial event causes us to look back over the past years, and as we do we realize that at no time have greater strides been made in the Escanaba Schools than at present. We would like to compliment the school administration, the Board of Education and, especially, the people of the Escanaba area for their foresight.

As teachers and parents, we are all proud to be a part of the Escanaba Area Public Schools and of the part we have played in making this an event worth celebrating. We are well aware of our obligation to youths and to adults and we feel that this awareness has benefitted both the community and us.

We are aware, too, that our task as teachers would be an impossible one without the full co-operation of the school administration and the School Board. We are proud of this co-operation and feel that it, as much as anything, is why the Escanaba Area Public Schools are the best in the entire Upper Peninsula. We all sincerely appreciate the help and understanding we have received from the administration and from the School Board.

Bonifas Technical School Building Was Once Brewery

Catherine Bonifas Technical School, the building now housing the State Highway Dept. office at 1601 Ludington St., used to be a brewery.

The building was converted to house vocational education facilities of Escanaba High School in 1945. When the new Area High School was completed, the building was abandoned as a school and eventually sold to the state.

Lyne J. Shaw, who directed instruction in the building for many years prior to his retirement in 1963, remembers the transformation of the brewery into a school.

"The biggest accomplishment of a lifetime is to make a brewery into a technical school," he said when he retired. "I remember taking the bar out of the building the first day."

When in use, the building had an enrollment of about 175 boys. Classes included drafting, machine shop, auto mechanics, printing, woodworking, welding and metal shop.

Besides being the first public school teacher in Escanaba, E. P. Lott in 1898 was a member of the village Board of Trustees and editor of the town's first newspaper.

Profitable Project

PORTALES, N. M. (AP)—Members of the Geology Club at Eastern New Mexico University have parlayed their knowledge of geology and spare time into a profitable project. The 10-member club has produced 200 geology kits, now required material for students enrolled in freshman geology. Each kit contains 20 rock and 20 mineral samples, a 10-power hand lens, a magnet and a porcelain streak plate. The latter is for use in identifying minerals by color.

State School Board Controls Education

The State Board of Education, an eight-member group of officials elected for terms of eight years, is the governing body over all public education in Michigan.

According to the State Constitution, the State Board of Education duties are:

"Leadership and general supervision over all public education, including adult education and instructional programs in state institutions, except as to institutions of higher education granting baccalaureate degrees, is vested in a state board of education. It shall serve as general planning and coordinating body for all public education, including higher education, and shall advise the legislature as to the financial requirements in connection therewith."

Gov. George Romney is an ex officio member of the Board.

Terms of Fill and Thurber expire Jan. 1, 1967. Both are seeking reelection on the Democratic ticket. They are opposed by Republicans Leroy G. Augenstein and James F. O'Neil.

Ira Polley, superintendent of public instruction, is an appointee of the State Board of Education and is the principal executive officer of the State Dept. of Education.

Responsibilities of the Dept. of Education include tabulation of school statistics, apportionment of state school monies as provided by law, preparation of forms for use by school district officers and administration of certain federal programs.

The department also works closely with Intermediate School districts which serve the state as a clearing house between the state and local school districts on many matters.

The Escanaba Area school district is included within the Delta-Schoolcraft Intermediate School district.

A Resolution

WHEREAS,

The year 1866 marks the Centennial year of the founding of the Escanaba Public School System, and

WHEREAS,

The school is the symbol of man's need to know and understand the universe in which he lives and to satisfy his intellectual needs, and

WHEREAS,

The people of Escanaba and of the Escanaba Area School District should look back with a sense of deep gratitude upon the year 1866, for it was in that year the Divine Providence inspired the early settlers on Sand Point to provide a school for the children and youth growing up in the primitive community, which was later to become known as Escanaba, and

WHEREAS,

The past one-hundred years have been years of steady growth and progress in the field of education and as the community grew and the population increased, more schools were added to fill the need for larger and better equipment and facilities, and

WHEREAS,

In this year of 1966, the Escanaba Area School District is one of the largest and best equipped districts in the Upper Peninsula.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED,

That this City Council, in behalf of its members and the citizens of this community do express to the Escanaba Area Public School District its heartiest congratulations in observance of its centennial, and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED,

That the City of Escanaba extend to the Superintendent of Schools and to all teachers and other personnel, a vote of thanks for tasks faithfully and excellently done and for their dedication to the ideals of sound learning.

Progress Theme: Better Schools

Education Builds Strong Community

By CLINT DUNATHAN
Daily Press Staff

The progress of the Escanaba area and the experience of its people support the theme of Escanaba's centennial salute to education—Better Schools Make a better Community.

The viewpoint is expressed in statements from men representing various fields of endeavor, including Dr. William Hemes, optometrist, who said: "This 100 years has truly been a century of progress."

Dr. Hemes is president of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce, was a member of the Escanaba Area School Board, and is active in civic affairs.

"There has been tremendous growth and advancement in our Escanaba area especially in the last 10 to 15 years," he said. "But we still have a lot of growing and advancing to do in many fields including politics, anti-discrimination and labor relations."

"The key to our rate of progress is education, not Federal aid or government intervention," Dr. Hemes believes.

In Many Fields

"We have been extremely fortunate to have a good educational system in the Escanaba area and far-sighted people who realize we must use our schools as a building block and a stepping stone for another century of progress."

Better schools make a better community — and they also assure a better educated product. The need for well educated young people extends into all classes and into all careers.

One of these is the career in law enforcement, which is placing increasing demands on the trained and educated officer, said Escanaba Police Chief Harold Finman. He graduated from the Escanaba High School in 1934.

"With the new laws and the problems of modern society, it is important that our officers have the best education obtainable," he said.

"Colleges and universities recognize this and have established schools for training police personnel, notably Michigan State University at East Lansing. Other states also have schools in police administration."

Fortunate Here

Chief Finman began work as a patrolman with Escanaba police in 1937 and has headed the department since 1954.

Some police departments in larger communities are requiring that recruit officers have a college education — indicating the trend toward higher personnel standards. Other communities are encouraging officers to enroll in training courses that improve the officers' performance and his chance of advancement.

An Escanaba businessman, Isadore Stein, agrees that performance is equated to the preparation and abilities of the individual.

"I have lived in Escanaba my entire lifetime, and I have seen the progress in education over the years," said Stein, who is president of the Escanaba Rotary Club.

"We have been fortunate in having the quality of administrators and teachers to have built the standards in education we in Escanaba can well be proud of. And now with the addition of the Area High School and the new grade schools we shall certainly be able to offer a standard of education second to none in the country."

Needs Of Industry

John Walbridge, Escanaba industrial leader, notes that to meet the varied needs of an industrial society there must be occupational and vocational programs offered by the schools.

"When industry hires people to fill jobs it finds that the easiest measurement to determine suitability is that of education," he said. "The previous work record is a factor, and of course physical health is important."

"Depending on the job, we usually check with the high school he has attended, and if the job involves college training we write to the school for a transcript of his grades."

The development of a work force trained vocationally is recognized as a growing obligation of educational institutions. The product — persons prepared for jobs — assures employment at higher income and meets the needs of an industrial society.

Informed Citizens

Kenneth Myllyla, principal of the Jefferson Elementary School in Escanaba, has a word to say from the standpoint of the educator:

"Better schools upgrade a community by establishing a higher educational level, enlarging the understanding of the people, and encouraging participation in local, state and national affairs," he said.

Good schools offer a continuing education to all people beyond the high school also, he said. "Thus they help to develop and foster the interests of adults as well as students in developing the talents of both youth and adults in the community."

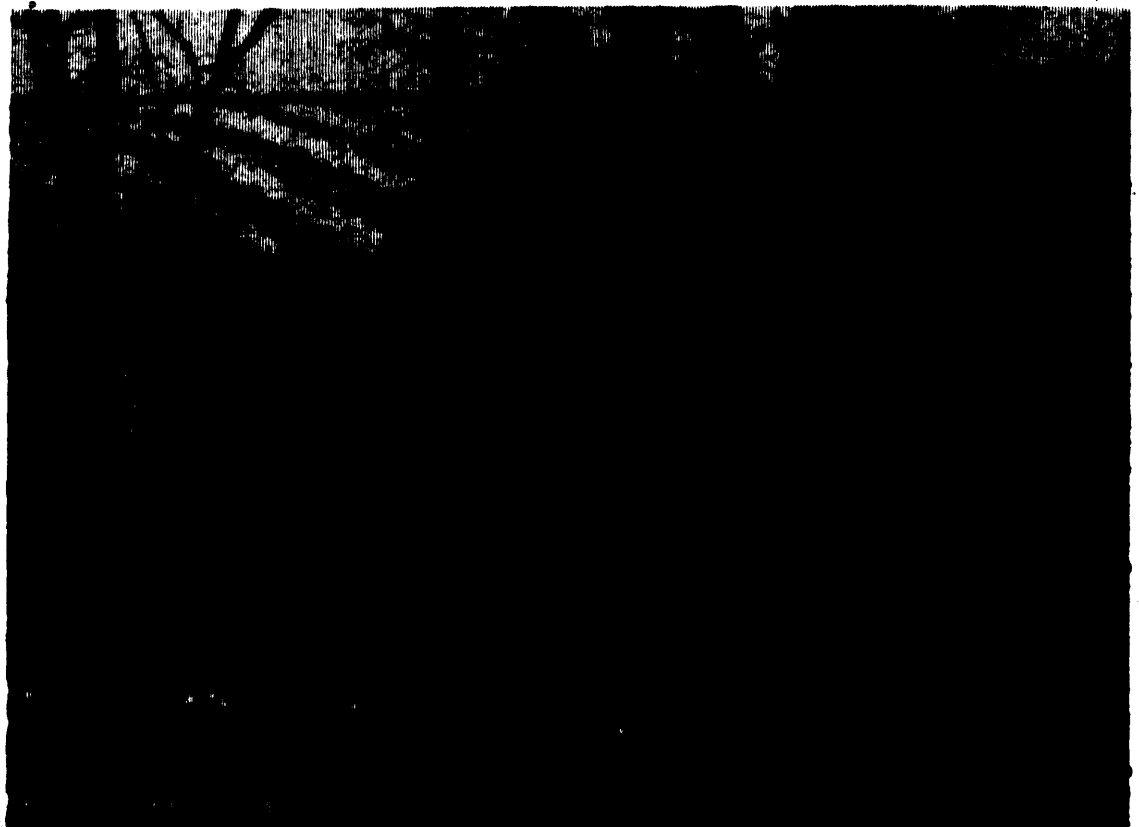

The community of the future, confronted with problems that result from increasing population and urbanization, will need informed and educated leadership — and better schools will help supply this.

Aids Employment

James Dantiz, manager of the local Michigan Employment Security Commission, said the value of education in relation to employment opportunities cannot be over emphasized. More and more employers are raising their educational requirements in the hiring of new employees. Employers are becoming more and more interested in hiring individuals who have greater potential for training and promotion.

Dantiz said that education not only helps an individual secure more suitable employment but also increases his or her earning capacity. The value of additional education is also reflected in unemployment statistics. The more education an individual possesses the less possibility there is that he will be come unemployed.

"The unemployment rate of high school graduates is considerably less than those individuals who do not com-

Old Franklin Housed All Grades

When the old Franklin School on Escanaba's south side was torn down in 1963, an era of educational service ended.

The old school, built in 1882, was the only school in the community which was ever used for children of all ages.

Though used in its twilight years as an elementary school, the Franklin school actually was Escanaba's first high school building. It was used for high school classes until 1907, when the Senior High building was completed.

It was from the Franklin High School in 1908 that Escanaba graduated its first four-year class, 13 members strong.

It was from the Franklin School that Escanaba fielded its first State Championship football team in 1899.

And it was from the Franklin School site in 1963 that the district started transporting children from city homes to other schools by bus.

Boston College Plans Expansion

BOSTON (AP) — Boston College has outlined plans for a $50-million development program scheduled for completion by 1972. The Very Rev. Michael P. Walsh, president of the college, said $25 million would go for new buildings and the rest for faculty salaries and student aid.

plete high school and considerably less among those who have attended college," he said.

"The emphasis is not limited to formal education but includes all types of vocational training. The manpower projections for the next 10 years indicate that the need for more education and training will continue to increase. Our staff always urges youths to continue their schooling if at all possible or to make every effort to get vocational training in the field for which they are best suited," Dantiz said.

A new building is going up on the site today—an eight-room, one story structure that will solve that problem next year. Students will be able to walk to school again.

Financing for the building was approved last February as part of a $1.45 million building program in the entire district. On three previous occasions, voters had rejected building proposals.

The old Franklin School building was razed by Radzinski Brothers, Oconto, Wis., in contract with the Board of Education.

Consolidation, Buildings:

Superintendent Bright Faced Rapid Changes

Walter W. Bright came to Escanaba during a time of change.

He was replacing as superintendent of schools John Lemmer, a man who had served in that capacity for 34 consecutive years.

He was coming into a district with growing pains because of impending consolidation.

It was during his administration that the old Franklin and Barr schools were torn down. It was in his administration that the new high school was opened. And it was in his administration that the new Escanaba Area district was born.

Bright, now 42 years old and assistant superintendent in the Grand Haven, Michigan school district, returned to Escanaba recently for a short visit.

"You know," he smiled, "We call Escanaba home now."

Bright took over as Superintendent of Schools on June 30, 1959, the date that Lemmer officially retired. He served through the end of the 1958-59 school year, when he submitted his resignation to the Board of Education "because of a long-range professional opportunity in another area of the state."

Potential Offered

When he left, he told the Board the Area school district "has as much potential as any I have known to do whatever needs to be done in support of its public school program — it has only to solidify a desire."

Returning recently, Bright could see happening much of what he forecast.

Three new elementary schools are being built, additions to three more schools are scheduled. The district, after a period of financial strain, is on solid footing.

It was a long haul, however, and Bright is proud he has had a part in it.

"When I came, Dr. Roy Johnson, who was President of the Board of Education then, had me going to meetings right away," Bright recalled. "I came June 29, the people voted on consolidation in August. The month of July was busily spent."

Biggest Job

"The biggest job was to get a group of formerly independent school districts to stop thinking of themselves as independent districts and to start looking at the total school district," he reflected.

"There was a natural kind of drawback," he said.

"This whole idea of a consolidated school district goes way back when one-room schools were eliminated in favor of township school districts," he continued. "This was something on a smaller scale, but the idea was similar."

Bright said that the threat of state action forcing K-12 districts also was a factor and that he believed people wanted to choose their own district before the state did it for them.

Much of the credit for the work behind formation of the district as it is today should go to Dr. Roy Johnson, Bright said, although the entire Board and Mr. Lemmer did their part, too. Members of the Board of Education when Bright took over as superintendent were Dr. Louis Groos, Arol Beck, E. G. Bennett, Mrs. N. L. Lindquist, Charles Felle, Jack Williams and Dr. Johnson.

Change Continues

A native of Smethport, Pa., Bright received his bachelor's degree in 1940 and master's degree in 1952 from the University of Michigan. He taught at Willow Run and Grand Haven and served as superintendent at Capre before coming to Escanaba.

When he left the community, the process of change was only starting.

It is still in progress today. That, however, is Superintendent Luther M. Barrett's responsibility.

Both Barrett and the entire district have Bright's best wishes.

IN 1968, Radzinski Brothers of Oconto, Wis., began demolition of the Franklin School to make way for a new school on the site. Wooden beams are clearly visible on the roof of the building. The new school, which finally won voter approval last February in a large elementary school building proposal, is now under construction. Steel will be evident in places wood was once used. High School Teaching Teens To Drive

Driver education training courses are relatively new in Michigan and most other states, but they are gaining federal fund support as part of a long range effort to increase safety for the man behind the wheel and the pedestrian at the crosswalk.

Schooling in the old days may have touched on methods of handling a fractious horse, but educators would never have believed the day would come when they would be charged with the responsibility of teaching youth to drive a motor vehicle.

Government places growing demands on the public schools, and driver training is one of these—but in Michigan the Legislature never provided money to cover the cost of the program.

Three Instructors

For example, the 1965-66 cost of the driver training program for the young people to 18 residing in the district, cost the Escanaba Area Public Schools a total of $10,182.33. The state reimbursed all but $64.81—but it was the first time state funds came that close to defraying the cost of the program.

Michigan law requires the public schools to set up the driver training programs and conduct them according to state standards. Enrolled are all young people (in or out of school) who reside in the district.

About 410 teenagers are enrolled in driver education in the Area School District. The instructors are John Slapp, Robert Slade and Ernest LaFave.

All of the classroom work and on-the-highway driving experience are scheduled outside of school hours, said Robert Micensky, Area High School principal. Most of the road work is conducted in the summer time when the young people are on vacation.

Goal Is Safety

There is some rewarding compensation to parents whose children successfully complete driver training education: Most insurance companies do not increase the rates as much for automobiles driven by teenagers who have a driver training certificate as they do for young drivers without such training.

The states and the local school districts are to receive (for the first time) funds to support driver education courses. Through the next three years $322 million will be available in federal funds to State Departments of Education. The money will come to local districts through the states.

Michigan may be expected to increase (with federal aid) its expenditures for driver training from $1,231,627 to $1,638,250. Local participation is expected to increase also.

There are some strings attached. Each participating state must have a broad highway safety program by Jan. 1, 1969. The standards for driver education are also to be raised to achieve greater highway safety.

THE WEBSTER SCHOOL, last of Escanaba's elementary schools to be built before the John Lemmer school, still stands in north Escanaba much as it did when it was constructed in 1911. Until 1931, when the Junior High was built, students stayed in the Webster school until they completed the eighth grade. The building now houses kindergarten through 6th grades. Louis Diedrich is principal. (Daily Press Photo)

A Webster School Remembrance...

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following poem was written by Leonard Sundquist, Escanaba Class of 1935, on occasion of the Webster School's 50th anniversary celebration five years ago. Sundquist now resides in Annandale, Va., but obviously carries quite a bit of his Escanaba education in his heart.)

When I started at Webster in '22
The school was young and looked quite new.
It really was a wonderful sight;
The roof didn't leak and the windows were tight.

The men who built were mighty proud—
Sometimes they'd say so, right out loud.
Since then it has often needed repair,
But I'll tell you this, I'm glad it's still there.

The years we have spent at Webster
Will always be remembered.
Some of the teachers we liked a lot,
And some we could have dismembered.

But patiently, year after year,
They gradually pulled us through it.
They helped us so much for the future to come;

But it took years before we knew it.

I left the school in '31,
The last of the eighth grade classes,
Now they teach as much in two years less
And most of the teachers wear glasses.

When we first went to Junior High,
They looked at us with a quizzical eye,
Because Webster was up north of the tracks
And they weren't quite sure we knew all the facts.

But these North-town kids were of solid stuff
And they showed them all, sure enough,
That you cannot find a better prepster,
Than one who comes from good old Webster.

I Attended Escanaba Schools In 1920

By ARNE ARNTZEN
Lake Shore Drive
Class Of 1921

I attended the Escanaba Schools in 1920, graduating from the Escanaba High School the following year. I like to think that the year 1920 was the most eventful year of my scholastic experience in the Escanaba Public Schools. Our student class of 1920 was extremely fortunate in having a fine group of dedicated teachers and an equally outstanding class of students, many of whom in later years achieved noteworthy distinction in their chosen fields of endeavor.

Perhaps the outstanding accomplishment that occurred in the year 1920 was the founding of the Orange and Black Literary Society. Six weeks after its inception, the group of fourteen charter members launched out upon an ambitious project which was to obtain nation-wide publicity. The society decided to conduct a drive for funds to help the starving children of Central and Southeastern Europe, setting as its goal the sum of $5,000 to be raised in Delta County.

After six weeks of intensive work, the society reached its goal and sent a check covering the $5,000 reached in the drive to the Michigan Headquarters of the European Hoover Relief. Noting what had been done by a comparatively small group of high school students, the now defunct "Literary Digest", commended the society in an article in their magazine for the very considerable sum they had raised for this noteworthy project.

Profile Of An Educator

Luther M. Barrett, Superintendent

BY DAVE ANDREWS

The desk of the superintendent of schools was cluttered. There were papers from one end to the other of the curving top, an ash tray in one corner, several paper weights strategically placed, a package of cigars and a pipe.

It seemed somewhat inconsistent with the sharp-featured man behind the desk.

Luther M. Barrett, 48, superintendent of the largest school in the Upper Peninsula, is anything but an uncluttered man.

Amid the seeming disarray, there is direction.

When Barrett came to Escanaba in the summer of 1964 to take over as administrative chief of the 180-square-mile Area School district, it was the district that was disarrayed.

Changes Evident

Finances were shaky. Children at one end of the city were being transported to the other end for classes which already were too large. Teacher salaries were low. And a general feeling of distrust seemed to prevail throughout much of the community.

Today, most of that has changed and, perhaps, for the first time since the district consolidation in 1959 there is truly an Area school district.

Operationally, the budget is balanced in black ink. There is no immediate threat of half-day sessions in elementary schools. Children are still being transported about the city, but three new elementary schools and additions to three more are on the way to alleviate the problem by 1967-68. Teacher salaries are finally beginning to reach a point of compensation commensurate with their skills. And the feeling of distrust has been largely overcome.

Barrett, of course hasn't been totally responsible and he's the first to point this out.

Board Credited

Certainly, the Board of Education, the citizens of the community who supported the administration and school board, and the state legislature also must be given credit toward the improvement.

But like a football team must have a coach, so must a school district have a leader. Barrett, former steelworker, salesman, teacher and high school principal, has had remarkable success.

A reader, a sometimes bowler and a member of innumerable professional organizations, Barrett's firm approach to education on his 6-foot-3 frame command respect from his office.

And although the superintendent doesn't always get his way with the Board of Education, he nevertheless appears to consistently gain ground.

The Escanaba Area Board of Education — a diverse, somewhat conservative and often sharply divided group — isn't a "rubber stamp" organization. The Board has few automatic "yes" people. Anything new or different is probed, broken down and then cautiously put back together for action. It isn't an easy group to get along with, but Barrett has usually managed to maintain at least working rapport.

Native Of Topeka

Married to the former Barbara Conser of Toledo, O., Barrett is the father of two children and recently became a grandfather for the first time when son, Jim, who is now teaching at Gladstone after graduating from Central Michigan University, and his wife became the parents of a girl.

Barrett's daughter, Sally, is a senior at the Area high school this year.

A graduate of Topeka, Kan., public schools, Barrett received his bachelor's degree from DePauw University, Greencastle, Ind., in 1940. He received his master's degree from the University of Michigan in 1951, wedging credits in between teaching assignments.

During World War II, he served as a PT boat commander with the U. S. Navy in the ber one goal is curriculum revision.

"It's not that we are out-dated now," Barrett reflected from behind his desk. "We have the traditional curriculum, but there have been some radical changes in curriculum thinking in recent years and we would like to make sure we are providing the proper type of curriculum for the students growing up in the last half of the 20th century."

A strong believer in a broad general educational program throughout both elementary and secondary grades, Barrett said he feels the area of social studies has been somewhat neglected amid the vast advances recently in the scientific field.

While physics and chemistry advance "we fall behind in learning how man uses this knowledge," he continued. "Maybe we should be teaching more on the history of Eastern cultures, studying more on the emerging nations of Africa, or offering Economic education, consumer economics, psychology, mental hygiene, logic."

Committee Planned

In line with this, Barrett said he plans to appoint a committee to undertake a detailed study of the system's entire social studies curriculum, to inventory what the system is teaching and to make recommendations for development of a social studies program of the 60's and 70's. The hope is to reach an understanding as to what is essential, what courses might be combined and what new subjects might be added.

He also points out in his annual report that English articulation should be stressed, the mathematics program should be reviewed, curriculum guides developed for elementary grades and perhaps an Accelerated Learning Program established at the high school to allow brighter students to advance on their own.

"The main responsibility of a high school is to give a good basic education," he said. "I'm a firm believer in general education, in the liberal arts colleges. In this age of specialists, we need a broad background so we can understand our society, community and each other."

Basic Education First

As far as vocational education is concerned, Barrett maintains a similar philosophy. Turning our professional machinists or sheet metal workers, isn't the high school's responsibility, he feels.

"I don't think that every high school should provide a full vocational education," he said. "Give a kid a chance to find out about the various vocational occupations in high school, but let the technical school provide the job training."

"Industries tell us don't worry about training, just give them someone who can read and write and understand instructions."

It sounded sensible on a bright summer afternoon.

The clutter on the desk wasn't apparent in the mind. There was direction in the words.

It seemed a good note on which to start Escanaba's second century of education.

Schools Grow, Districts Shrink

Public education in Michigan is getting bigger all the time.

Since 1836, when 2,337 students in 55 school districts attended school an average of 70 days per year, education has grown to encompass 2.5 million children yearly.

Number of school districts in the state grew rapidly to a high point of 7,362 in 1912. Since that time, however, although total number of students has increased by 1.7 million, the number of school districts has declined.

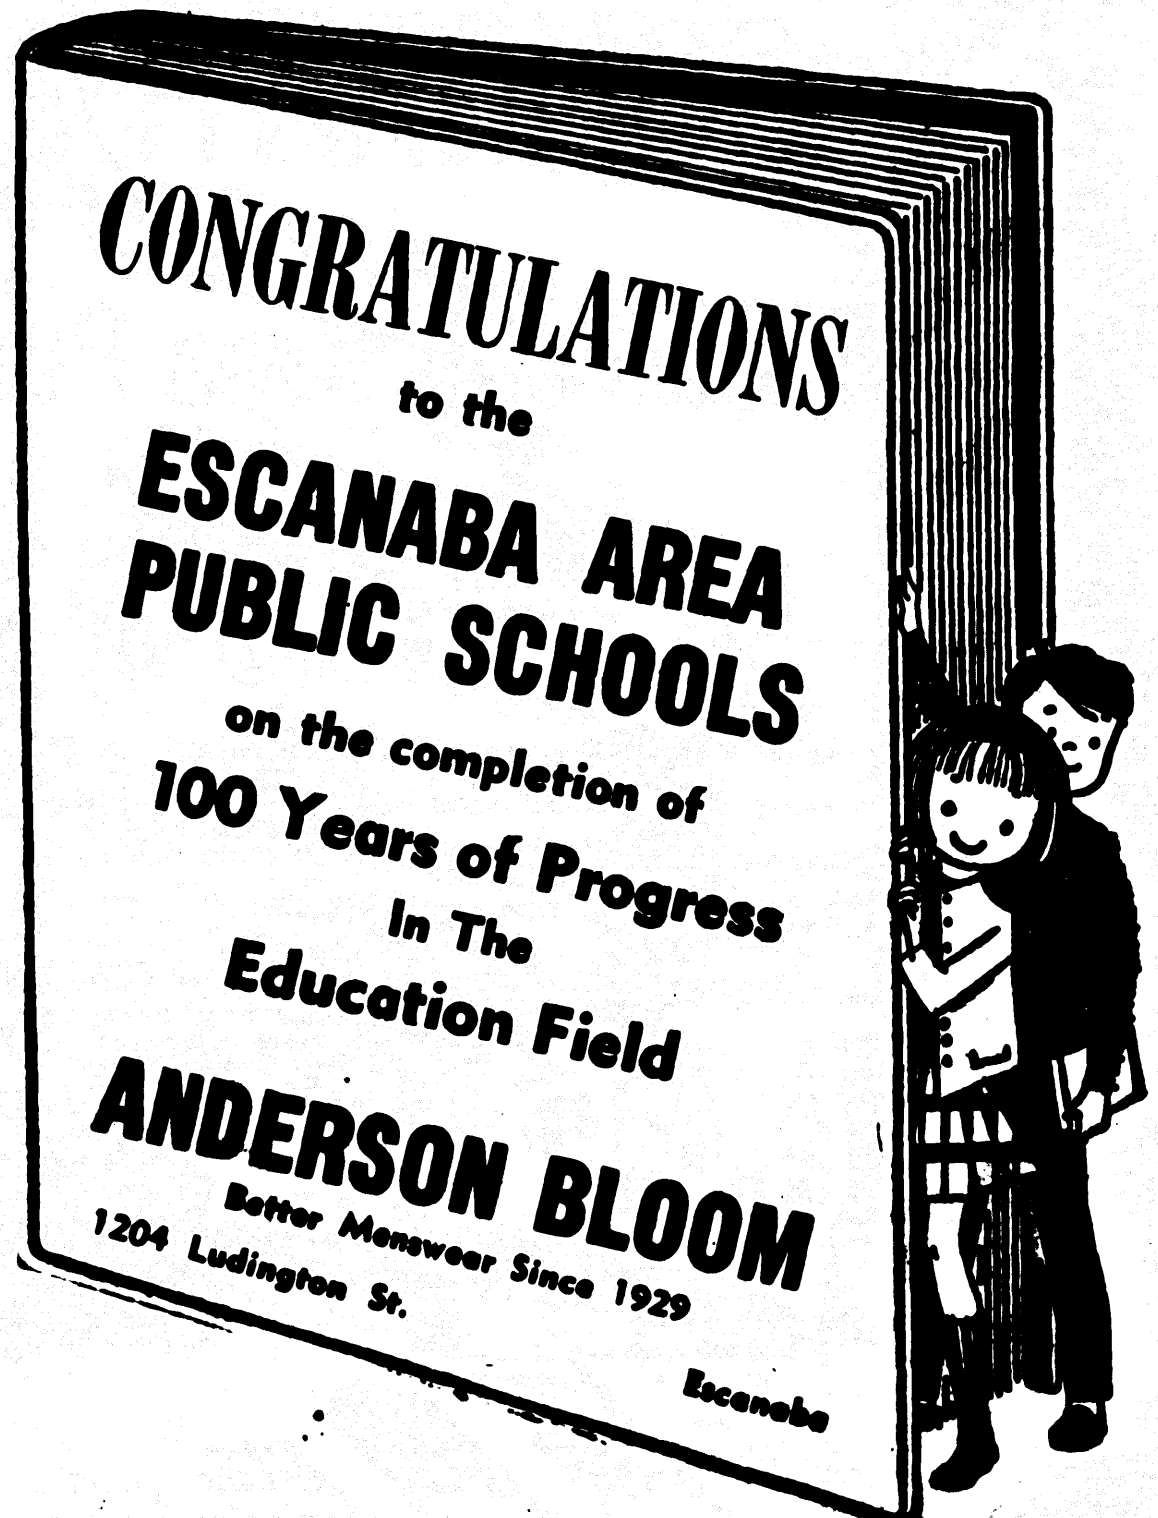

In 1923, total number dipped under 7,000 for the first time since 1880 and in 1946 a drop of 206 districts reduced the total to 5,823. By 1950, there were only 4,918.

With the school reorganization act passed by the legislature providing the impetus, number of districts has now been reduced to 943. The legislature set a target of 500.

While number of districts decline, the number of teachers required to teach the expanding population soared over 70,000 last year.

About the only thing that hasn't changed is length of class school year, 180 days being average for state school districts since 1942.

EHS Class Of 1948 Makes A Will, Prophecy

CLASS WILL

To brother Rusty, goes Grant Markham's enthusiasm as a radio ham. Harold Severinsen has offered to tell Mr. Wylie's forestry class all about life with the conservation corps. John VanEckert bequeaths his dramatic ability as Mark Anthony to Mr. Henne so he can parcel it out among next year's debaters, forensic speakers and drama stars....

Harold Breitzman gives Franny Papineau his Model T so he can start a used car lot. To Dean Shipmen, Dick Cleerman offers his position as basketball manager. Ted Cavadeas leaves his wavy hair to Anne Relfe. Bob Anderson wills his position on the football team to Fred Johnson.... Barb Duchaine gives her prized position as Mr. Rurwitch's guinea pig to Marilyn Melin. Clarice Goertzen's spelling ability of necessity goes to Matt Smith. That prompting of the senior play is willed by Joanne Howe to Glenna Fallmer.

Rodney Lindstrom's pugilistic skill is passed on to Ray Stensen so he can protect himself in arguments with pal Larry Stein. Gus Anderson

CLASS PROPHECY (Prediction, 1948)

That famous golfer, Harold VanEffen has finally turned professional after many successful seasons in amateur meets. Joyce Vanlerberghe, sole owner of World Airline Co., of Chicago, has announced that she will maintain regular service between Escanaba and Marinette with special rates for students....

Mayor Gerald St. Martin has announced he will run for a 10th term. Miss Anne Hendrickson, the famed soprano, is now starring in a return engagement of "HMS Pinafore" with the Metropolitan Opera Company. Star back on the Green Bay Packers in this season's playing is Bob (Jagger) Judson....

Famous explorer Bill Perron is deep in Africa. Sally Stack has joined the faculty at Escanaba senior high as girls gym and community health teacher. Beverly Erickson has taken

Mary Nicholas is manager of F. W. Woolworth's in New York. Gerald Nelson is seen driving a 1968 Ford, still a bachelor. Dick Lough, star shortstop for the Cincinnati Reds, signed his 12th contract yesterday. Warren Giles, general manager of the club, announced Lough would draw about $110,000, not including bonuses....

The center of the Escanaba community back in 1866, the birthday of public schooling in this area, was at 3rd St. and Ludington, about where the State Office Building now stands.

Escanaba's first "private" school was established in 1870 by Miss M. E. Hart of Muscatine, Iowa. She described it as "select and private" and it had a short (but select) life.

Thirty Years Ago At Escanaba High School . . .

By CARL DICKSON
Class Of 1935

Thirty Years ago . . . A student wrote in an earlier class prophesy, "the political situation of the world is nearly chaotic".

Already the Nazis had goose-stepped into the Rhineland, but the high school student was nescient to the muffled drums of the Third Reich.

As always, the high school drop out was a part of society, but very few were concerned, since theirs was an education spawned on years of repression. For lack of something better to do most students continued their education thru grade 12.

The victory pendulum in the Escanaba - Menominee football series was swinging back and Esby was about to enter one of its most glorious eras of grid-iron dominance. B M O C was the football hero and the boys kept in condition by running both ways to practice at the new athletic field. For that matter most students kept in pretty fair shape by dashing home ten or twelve blocks for a noon lunch.

Gym was mandatory for all high school students, and music was an extra curricular activity with no credit given. Important student affairs of the calendar year included the E Man's Minstrel, the operetta, the class play and the Senior Ball, which incidently at that time offered a package deal hat included lunch on the third floor after the dance. Needless to say the arrangement was not too popular.

Far less stress was placed on the value of an education. There were few, if any, scholarship tests, for college beckoned to all who could finance it. Outside of the traditional one-two pot very little significance was placed on class rank, although the instruction was there for those who took advantage of it.

The Bangs - French - Irons triumvirate was symbolic of the dedicated teacher of the day. It was a day when they talked of 90 chemical elements. A day when it was an indisputable fact that the atom was the smallest particle of the element

Thirty years ago . . .

First Play

The first class play, "Snow White," was produced by students of the Escanaba public school system in 1893.

Wooden Sidewalks

Escanaba had wooden sidewalks in its business district in 1870. These were easily broken by wagons and among the first village laws was one that provided a penalty of $10 for persons who rode or drove a team on any of the sidewalks.

Teaching of dancing in gym was approved by the Board of Education in 1916.

Graduation Day

GRADUATION, perhaps the supreme moment of a student's education, has come for thousands of young adults in Escanaba. There wasn't always a high school, but for the past 100 years there has been education. And when a person leaves school, it's always a graduation. These three girls were photographed posing for a picture a few years ago. It's that kind of event, one to be preserved forever. (Daily Press Photo)

I Attended Escanaba Schools In 1958

BY DAVE ANDREWS
1713 10th Ave., S.
Class of 1958

Escanaba schools are many things to many people, but to everyone it's an experience never forgotten.

To me, my education is Jefferson School playing Barr School in touch football, Catherine Locke and Bernice Firkus; It is Coach Pucklewartz shouting "one length, 25 and 10" in Junior High gym and Jack Holm teaching English.

It is playing the Eskey Fight Song an octave above score in the band, sitting in the squeaky auditorium comparing homework for Mr. Schram and walking the cold mile home for lunch. It is playing on Jim Roman's baseball team and football for Rollie Dotch; It is scrambling Sault Ste. Marie's "flying saucer" on a Friday night, 20-0.

It is dates, dances, parties and places like Club 314 and the Sports Bowl.

But more than anything, my education is Edward Edick, who stepped down as the finest principal a school could ask when my class graduated.

Congratulations

Area School Enrollment Growth Pattern Crosses

If a mathematician drew a graph representing the enrollment of the Escanaba Area public school system, it might look like an "X" in this Centennial year.

While the number of pre-school children in the district declines, total enrollment rises.

Supt. of Schools Luther M. Barrett said the district's pre-school census — a count of all children from birth to school age — has dropped steadily from a high of 2,441 in 1961 to this year's total of 1,963.

Enrollment, meanwhile, has climbed to a high this year of 4,500 and the school census shows an all-time high of 6,963 children from ages five to 19 with permanent residence in this district. In 1961, there were only 6,153.

How is it possible?

Actually, the figures are somewhat of an optical illusion, although there definitely are fewer small fry in the community today than there were five years ago.

Enrollment can increase simply by graduating a class of 280 seniors and replacing them with 340 first graders. What is causing the school administration concern, however, is that those large first grade classes apparently will not be on the way too much longer.

Kindergarten enrollment declined 30 students this year from 488 to 458. With number of pre-schoolers continuing to drop, the prospect is for an even smaller kindergarten next year.

Supt. Barrett blamed the decline on "the pill."

Champions

Between 1899 and 1907, Escanaba held five Upper Peninsula football championships and two state titles. Escanaba won championships again in 1938, 1940 and 1941. First football games were played in 1897.

"People aren't having as many children now as they were," he said.

What does this mean to the school district?

"If the community doesn't grow and if there is no industrial and business expansion, the enrollment of the school district could decline in the years ahead," Barrett said. "If we are to look for growth, it will probably come from outside the community, rather than from within." It's an interesting thought.

The cost of operating schools during 1966-67 will cost more than the cumulative cost for the first 35 years of operation. In addition, since 1959 citizens of the Escanaba Area have assumed a total bonded indebtedness of $1,256,000. On February 1, 1966, voters approved the construction of three new elementary schools (each of which will contain eight classrooms and a multi-purpose room), a boiler house for the Junior High and Washington Schools, and the addition of eight classrooms and two multi-purpose rooms to existing structures. Most of this new construction is necessary to replace obsolete buildings that are over half a century old.

Sputnik Triggered High School Action

By ROBERT MICENSKY
Principal, Area High School

The American high school emerged in the 1820's and grew steadily but slowly until the upsurge of the post World War II years, and especially the past decade. Rapid growth in enrollment, new interests in education, and available funds have all played an important part in bringing about many changes.

Immediately after "Sputnik," it became almost a national pastime to state opinions as to "What is wrong with our schools?"

While much of the criticism was unfounded, and few had solutions to offer, it did much more than just step on the toes of educators. These critics did a great service in calling attention to the schools and their real needs.

The result has been that not only have educators taken a long hard look at themselves and their programs, but they have found willing volunteers for curriculum studies, new financial aid, and a public receptive to change.

The impetus which has been provided, as well as the many continuing programs, will carry the educational system of the entire country along on a quest for the best means of providing the best education possible.

Escanaba Changes

Although improvements were made in all areas of education, we will consider here the changes made at the high school level, especially the high school in Escanaba, where education is observing its centennial.

Just as all changes are not for the better, and change does not necessarily mean progress, not all new methods, courses of study, etc., are readily adaptable or of immediate benefit to every school. The available building and its facilities, the additional staff, the cost, etc. are restricting factors, as well as composition of the student body.

Obviously, not all innovations can even be tried in every school. However, as many as possible should be studied with future adaptation in mind. This is what has been done in the Escanaba Area Public High School.

Consolidation Comes

The consolidation of small schools, or the annexation to an existing large school, was highly recommended as the means for providing a large enrollment and permitting a diversified curriculum without exorbitant expenses. This move is currently being encouraged throughout the entire state of Michigan, and was accomplished in the Escanaba area seven years ago when the townships of Cornell, Ford River, and Wells annexed to the Escanaba Public Schools. There still remains the possibility of the Bark River-Harris district becoming a part of the Escanaba Area Public School system although this proposal was defeated by the voters of both districts last July.

The most obvious change was the building of the new Escanaba Area Public High School and the improvements made possible by the new modern facilities. Every class was affected by the increased space and better equipment, but this was especially noticeable in classes that had been severely hampered in the old school. A few examples are the increased number of students able to take Art, and Typing; the more adequately equipped science laboratories, and separate areas for choral and instrumental music.

In keeping with the national trend, curriculum studies were conducted. The new quarters made it possible to make some of the changes, which these studies pointed out to be needed.

The addition of at least one year of science as a requirement for graduation was in line with the trend toward the emphasizing science in our lives. A general science course was added as well as the improvement of other existing courses through the use of modern equipment. Another advanced science class, probably an advanced biology, has been proposed and may become a reality in the very near future.

Math Revamped

The traditional mathematics courses have incorporated some of the new concepts. Combining plane and solid geometry into one course makes it possible for students to take an additional semester course in analytic geometry, which is being offered for the first time this year.

In the social studies, the government course was lengthened to a whole year, and last year a third semester of World History was added. A thorough study is to be made in this area and no doubt some further changes made.

Increased space along with an additional teacher permitted more students to take home economics courses, as well as meeting the requirements necessary for reimbursement under the vocational education program.

Enrollment in typing classes more than doubled following the move to the new building, and the enrollment in the entire business education department increased this year.

However, this is an area that can be developed in the future. Serious consideration and study have been given to entering into a vocational education program. The areas of distributive education, retailing, advertising, and data processing could be emphasized in the future as they are fields of employment least likely to be replaced by automation.

The industrial arts department made some revisions and twelve week basic or exploratory courses were added. Consideration is also being given to a vocational education program in this area.

Guidance Improved

In foreign language, a language laboratory has been used for several years, and this year a third year of both French and Spanish was added.

The guidance service has been improved and extended through the additional staff and a complete testing program. With more students wanting to go on to college or some other means of further education, the counselors are able to advise students and parents of abilities, potential for success, as well as aiding in making application for enrollment or financial help.

Although there has been much national publicity on such teaching innovations as educational TV, programmed learning, team teaching, large and small group instruction, etc., their use has hardly been sampled locally and their potential remains for the future. There has been an increase in the availability and use of audio-visual and other instructional aids however.

Rather than the mere acquisition of knowledge, an ultimate goal of education is independent study. By this is meant the study that is carried on by a properly motivated student after the teacher has concluded the lesson. It may be inside of the school as well as outside, during school hours or after them.

The high school student of today is equipped and capable of studying on his own, if instilled with the proper attitude. The not too distant future may well see the end of the large study hall, at least for the upper classmen. This may be accomplished through the use of the seventy minute period, the open or college type campus, or the extension of the school day with the student body and faculty staggered over the increased schedule.

Library Focal Point

Our fine library with its resource centers, conference rooms, and volumes of books is well equipped to become the focal point of education in such an endeavor. The addition of a second fully qualified librarian this year will mean better service to students. The time may well come when the library will extend its services to include remaining open for several evenings each week.

This attempt to point out some educational changes of the past decade, certainly, is not complete and many fine improvements may have gone unheralded. Predicting the future course of educational changes is also apt to be incomplete and subject to error and wild guesses.

However, one thing is certain. The numbers to be educated will continue to grow. The quantity and quality of the content of the educational program must likewise expand as life itself becomes more complicated and the amount of knowledge increases.

Escanaba Area Public Schools' 100th Anniversary

Being your State Representative for the past 18 years and a member of the Educational Committee for 12 years, I have learned and know the problems and tribulations it is to operate a school system such as our own. I have worked with many educators on both the State and Local levels and have been instrumental in passing legislature for the improvement and progress of the school systems throughout our State. Born and raised in Escanaba, a student in the Webster school and the Escanaba Senior High School I am very familiar with the problems on our local level.

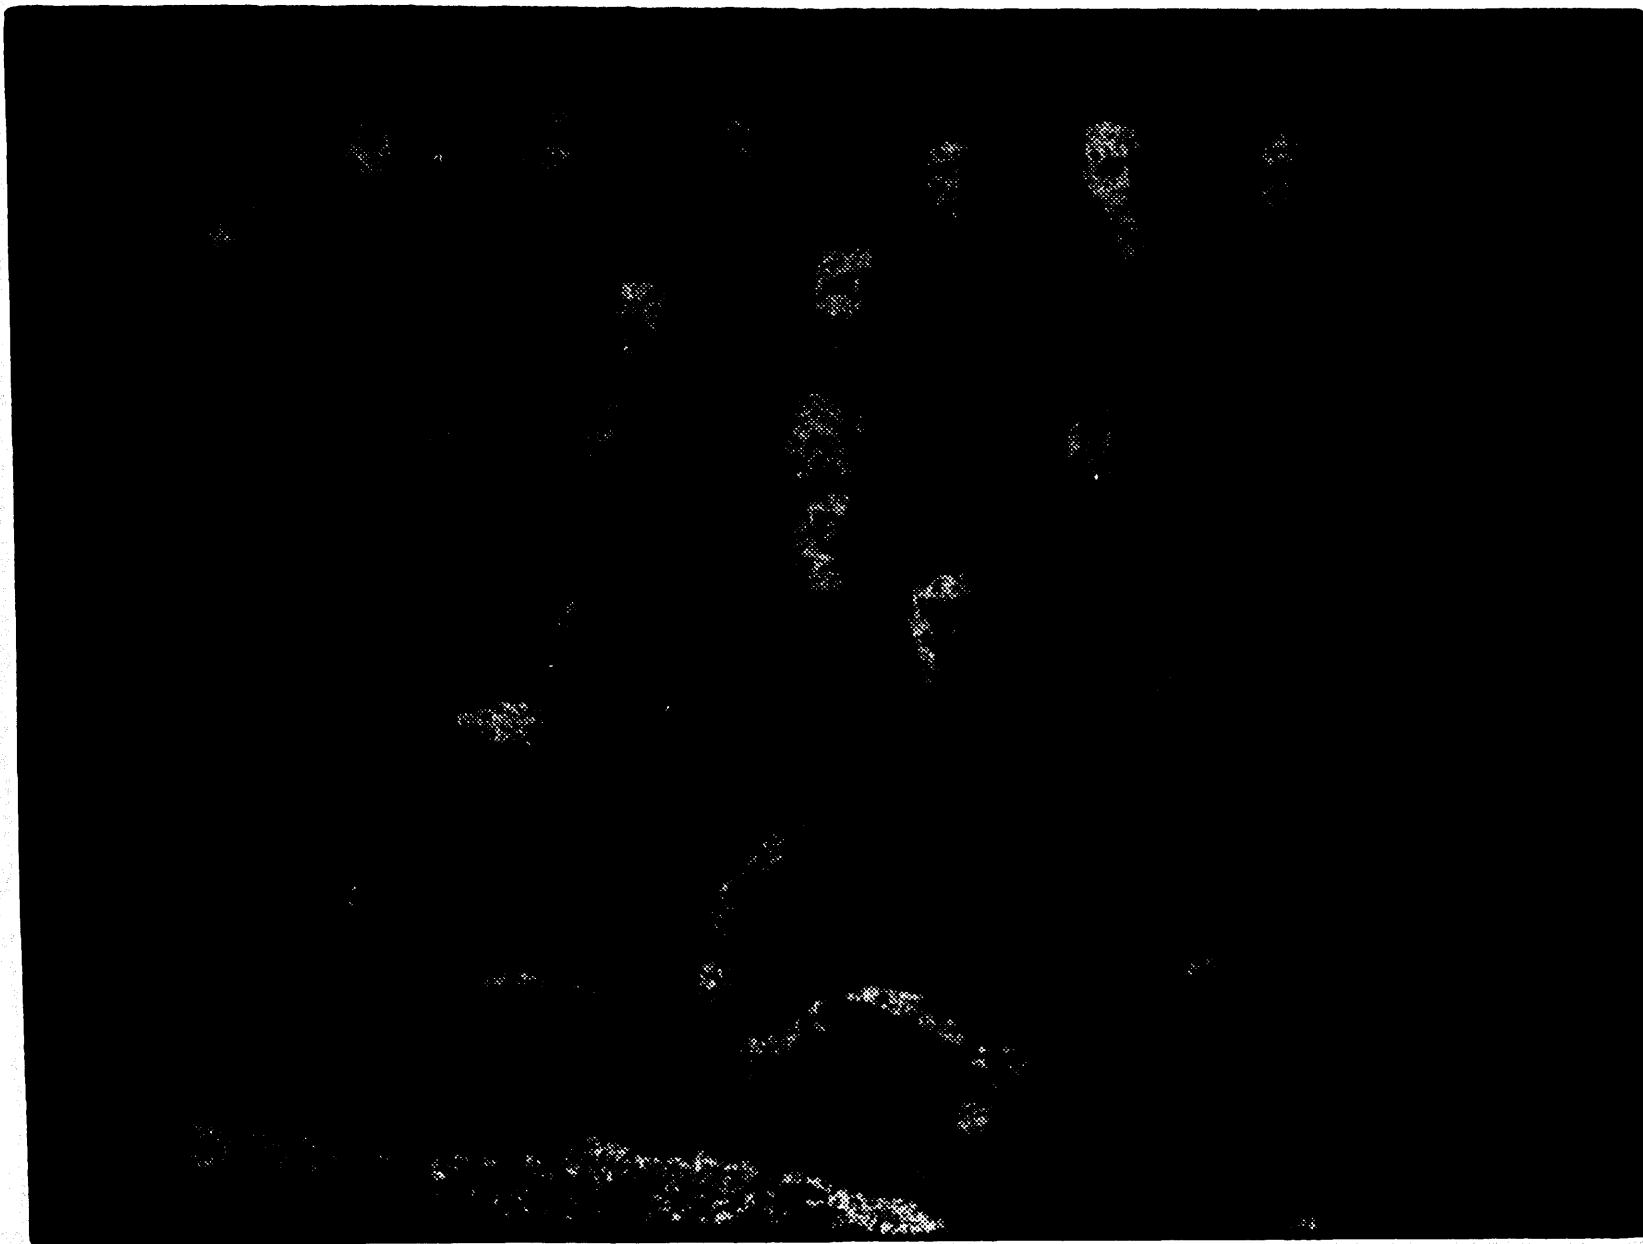

I am thankful at this time to be able to congratulate the Escanaba Area Public School system, its teachers, administrators and board of education for the educational progress they have achieved in the past. For with their fine teaching today, the future fathers of our state and nation will be ready to lead us tomorrow.

Escanaba 1904 State Football Champions

Escanaba Won State Title With All-American On Bench

The Escanaba football team of 1904 won five games and didn't even win the Great Northern Conference championship.

The Escanaba football team of 1904 won only four games, but will be remembered forever by sports fans as high school champions of the state of Michigan.

It happened in Ann Arbor, when Escanaba defeated Mount Pleasant 15-5—and they did it without a player who was to become an All American at the University of Michigan.

E. F. (Tommy) Hughitt, the little fellow who didn't play high school football because he was too small, went on to win All-America honors at Michigan as a quarterback.

Hughitt won letters at Michigan in 1912-13-14-15, playing under Fielding H.

Yost. The Wolverines in that period won 21 games, lost nine and played one tie.

But Hughitt was only a "mascot" for the 1904 Escanaba team. Main cogs were Peter Semer and Mike Welch, both of whom could have been college stars if they had chosen to pursue football, Hughitt said.

The team started the season with a 46-0 romp over Marinette, before playing a scoreless tie with the Gladstone City team. They went on to lick Ishpeming 30-0 and Menominee 12-5 before winning over Mount Pleasant, 15-5. Touchdowns in those days were only five points.

Coach of the team was John Woodhams.

The State Championship of 1904 was only one of a long series of conquests for Escanaba athletic teams, including those of the present era.

Jim Roman's baseball teams of the 1950's ran up a string of 43 straight victories over five seasons before losing. Basketball, track, tennis and golf teams also have added many trophies to Escanaba's collection.

But it's doubtful if any Escanaba team ever won a state championship like the 1904 team did with an All-American on the bench.

Local, State, Federal Funds Support Schools

When the Escanaba's first school district was started in 1866, little did the founders realize that a century later the district would grow to a multi-million dollar program.

In 1867, total budget for operation of the public schools was $589.

Three months ago, the Escanaba Area Board of Education approved a 1966-67 operating budget of $1,980,000. Total expenditures this year to educate 4,500 children will exceed $2 million, including the hot lunch program.

The Escanaba Area Public Schools are financed from three sources—local property taxes, state aid to schools and federal aid. In addition, some money is realized from collection of fees and lunch charges.

First School Was At Edge Of Town

Emma J. Tyler, writing in the Escanaba High School annual of 1903, recalls "the first school I ever attended in Escanaba was a building of two rooms set down on a sand heap, amidst bushes and stumps, standing about where our new library (Carnegie) is at the present time."

The first school building was "quite on the outskirts of the town," she reported. In the early days the city's center was about where the State Office Building is at the present time.

There were no sidewalks in Escanaba in those early years of the first school building and children came to school "on pathways worn by the feet of cows and pigs. The town was full of pigs."

Local share of the general operating budget is about $750,000, based on tax collections of 14.7 mills on a district tax valuation of some $50.6 million. The state of Michigan will contribute nearly $1.2 million in general state aid, transportation reimbursement and special education assistance.

Property owners are assessed 7.3 mills for school operation which are allocated each spring by the County Tax Allocation Board, plus 7.5 mills that were voted extra for operation of the district.

Federal aid comes for special projects, such as the $80,000 developmental reading program conducted under the Elementary-Secondary Education Act last summer. There is also federal money available for equipment and instructional supplies under the National Defense Education Act on a sharing basis with the school district.

Best Financial Shape

The Board of Education of the Escanaba Area district has taken advantage of this program to purchase needed science and audio-visual equipment, as well as such things as maps and globes.

Reimbursement from the federal government also allows the hot lunch program to operate with a minimum of charge to students. Driver education programs are financed by the state.

Of the total operating budget this year, $1,670,975 will be paid by the district to administrators, teachers and non-professional personnel in salaries. Remainder of the budget will be paid for supplies, heat, electricity, maintenance and capital outlay.

Supt. Luther M. Barrett, in his 1965-66 year end report, said "I believe we are commencing this school year (1966-67) in the best financial condition in a number of years."

"The successful renewal of extra voted millage last February, plus a steady allocation rate, coupled with another major improvement in the State Aid formula all enable us to meet most of the immediate demands on our income."

School As Usual

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit public school pupils will be in school as usual today although other public school pupils in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties got two holidays while their teachers attended regional conferences of the Michigan Education Association.

First driver education class was conducted in 1947 when the superintendent was authorized to make application for a dual-control car.

The Old Guard

THE WASHINGTON SCHOOL, constructed in 1898 along with the Barr School, will be the next of Escanaba Area's old elementary schools to be razed making way for new buildings. The Board of Education has already approved plans for the new eight-room elementary school to be built behind the existing school. Contracts are expected to be bid and let later this month. When the new school is finished sometime in 1968, the old building will be demolished to provide more playground area. (Daily Press Photo)

THE JEFFERSON SCHOOL, first school to be erected in Escanaba in the 20th century (1901), is still in use at the corner of 2nd Ave. S., and S. 15th St. Plans call for it to remain a part of the school district's physical plant until at least a 10-room addition is completed to the John Lemmer School. Located on a small plot of ground not large enough for further school buildings, the Jefferson will probably be razed. (Daily Press Photo)

High School Grows In Five Leaps

This review of the development of the Escanaba High School for the period from 1878 (when the High School was founded) to 1966 was presented to the Delta County Historical Society at a recent meeting. The author served as principal of the Escanaba Senior High School for 22 years before his retirement.

By EDWARD E. EDICK

Recalling events as they lead up to the present often helps us to anticipate things to come. In the history of the High School there seems to be at least five leaps forward — possibly six.

I shall try to follow these in chronological order and to associate each step with some force which stimulated the change.

By 1886, England, France and Germany had what we might call a system of national education. They had discovered, over a period of 100 years, that nationalism, democracy and the industrial revolution implied the necessity for an educated people.

Free Schools

In spite of this revelation, schools in these countries were what we would call "class" schools. Although they were considered "free" the higher elementary and what we now think of as high schools, required tuition fees. This restricted attendance to the monied class and the aristocracy. America wanted nothing of this. It was one of the reasons our forefathers immigrated to this land of ours.

In spite of this there was a trend in the original 13 states and quite naturally so, to simulate the institutions of learning they were acquainted with.

But the pioneer in America was not hemmed in — he had vast areas to the west — so he migrated to be free and to own land — and if you please — to do as he pleased.

These were the people who populated Escanaba — pioneers, who by their very nature were "classless" — and they wanted schools open to all.

About the time our community was being settled there were leaders in the field of education who visited the "Old" countries to study their educational systems and to bring back to America the best of what they saw there. Among this group was Horace Mann, then secretary to the State Board of Education in Massachusetts. Through his efforts a new surge of national consciousness toward education was stimulated and spread throughout the land. Thus the philosophy of a free and universal education was initiated.

The High School

In spite of the general acceptance of this philosophy, people objected to the support of secondary, or high schools. Why, they asked, should we be forced to pay for and support high schools when we have no youngsters or do not care to have our children attend?

The struggle for free high schools in the 70's and 80's was culminated in the Supreme Court of Michigan. In 1872, a group of citizens in Kalamazoo brought suit against school district No. 1 of Kalamazoo "to restrain the collection of such portion of the school taxes assessed against complainants — devoted to the support of the high school in the village . . ." Justice Thomas M. Cooley's decision supported the action of the district. It served to stimulate free high schools in the state of Michigan and served as a precedent in similar cases in other states.

Thus, by 1872, the pioneers in Escanaba were free to do as they pleased as far as the High School was concerned.

After the schools district was organized Sept. 5, 1866, a two room schoolhouse was erected and in 1868 the term was extended to nine months.

An extra story was added in 1871 and with four rooms came the title of principal. But what is more important new subjects were added, including geometry and other subjects which were above the elementary school levels. In my own thinking this was the first step in the direction of a high school. As a matter of fact it was a high school because subjects were being offered higher than the elementary level. It is interesting to note that "High School" had been used to describe a public school which offered courses beyond those generally accepted as elementary (commonly referred to as the three-R's).

Edward E. Edick

Although we accept the public high school as a distinct institution now, it was not until the Kalamazoo case in 1872 that it had a real legal status . . . Later permissive legislation in our state as well as others, established this unique type of school as a distinct part of our system of national education.

The American High School is unique because it was a free school and open to all regardless of economic or social status, religious beliefs or racial background. It was a classless school.

By 1879 the way was clear for the pioneers of this community to establish a high school. In this year a two year high school course was added, and it is the first mention of such a school up to this point. The first class was graduated in 1881 and I believe was made up of three graduates. The population of Escanaba was about 3,000.

The Franklin School was built in 1882 and the upper floor was used for the High School. The High School term was extended to three years and in 1894 it was accredited by the University of Michigan.

This accreditation is a clue as to the purpose of such a rapid expansion of the High School in Escanaba.

Accreditation Was

At this point it is important to know that accreditation by an outside agency was rather new. It simply meant that the University evaluated the courses of study offered in the high school and its standards of instruction as to be sufficiently high to enable its graduates to continue their education on a College or University level.

It is to the credit of the people of Escanaba that its High School has had continuous accreditation since 1894. It is a heritage this community should be proud of and protect with all the resources at its command.

The Franklin School continued to be used as a High School until 1907, when a new High School was built.

During the period 1882 to 1907, the curriculum was almost exclusively college preparatory. However, certain subjects were creeping in which would meet the needs of local demands.

In addition child labor laws were forcing more and more children to attend school.

Changing Needs

By 1907 these forces as well as many others had changed the nature of the High School population from a rather homogeneous group, interested mainly in college preparation to a heterogeneous group of college and non-college bound students.

The new High School (built in 1907) met the needs of a growing population as well as the new demands being made upon it.

It contained a commercial department, science laboratories, a large auditorium, gymnasium, and many other innovations which made it one of the outstanding high schools in the State of Michigan.

In 1917, a manual training wing was added. This completed the expansion of the High School until 1931, when the school system was reorganized on a 6-3-3 plan. Although this organization was based mainly on psychological reasoning, the new Junior High School relieved the elementary schools of the 7th and 8th grades, and the High School of the 9th grade.

This school served its purpose well up to 1945. At this time the population of the student body had grown to such an extent that a school planned for 400 students was accommodating over 750 students in three grades. If the Junior High School had not been built and the 9th grade was still part of the Senior High School, we would have housed more than 1,000 students in a building planned for 400.

To relieve the situation our shops were removed to the Catherine Bonifas technical school. This move was expedited by the generous bequest of Mrs. Catherine Bonifas.

Area High School

If it had not been for this move it would have been imperative that a new high school be built in 1945. As it was the old Senior High School shop rooms were converted to classrooms which in turn were filled to capacity.

Although the new Technical School had some of the finest shops I have ever seen—it did have its limitations.

Students were required to commute between the two schools—not that this hurt them too much—but because it was difficult to schedule students for courses they desired. It was difficult for college prep students to take shop courses and equally difficult for boys interested in shop to take college prep classes.

In addition to this the separate Technical School did not lend itself to the most efficient use of our teaching staff, many of whom could have handled subjects related to shop courses.

Meeting The Need

Because of the exploding school population and a projected student body of 1,500 students by 1970 (1,318 at present), a worn out school building, new demands being made on the high school program, our community responded to the challenge and launched on a building program it has a right to be proud of.

The new Area High School, occupied by 1,267 students in 1965, 1,318 in 1966, was opened in 1963.

Although it is difficult for us to predict changes of the next 100 years in our High School, one thing is certain—there will be no room for mediocrity and the pursuit of excellence must become a major concern in our schools. As adults we must support every effort to this end.

Finest Of Its Time

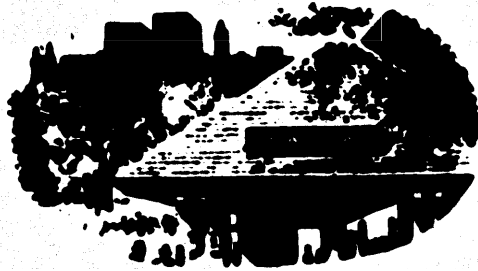

ESCANABA'S second high school—used after the old Franklin School—was constructed on San Juan Hill in 1907. One of the finest in the land at the time, the school could only accommodate 400 students comfortably and as the community grew, the building became too small. Vocational education classes were moved into the Catherine Bonifas Technical School. The gymnasium was outdated by the newer facility in the junior high for basketball games. And even graduation ceremonies were moved to the William W. Oliver auditorium. In 1963, the building was vacated for the new Area High School and now is home of Bay de Noc Community College. They Find Other Uses:

Old Schools Never Die

Old school buildings never die, they just find other uses.

When the Escanaba Senior High School was decommissioned in 1963, the building was turned into Bay de Noc Community College. When Catherine Bonifas Technical school had outlived its usefulness to the school district, the State Highway Dept. moved in.

When the Barr school was taken out of service, for a time it was used as a State Library Branch and also as a branch office of the U.P. Child Guidance clinic.

Even the old Ford River school at Hyde has been saved. It's now a residence.

And so, too, has the old Webster School been given another life.

The Webster Annex is now home of the administrative offices of the Escanaba Area School district and is busier than ever. Where classrooms were there are offices. Signs of education are everywhere, although much of the building has been remodeled and partitioned for its current use.

Supt. Luther M. Barrett,

Stephen C. Baltic, business manager, and Vernon Ihlenfeldt audio-visual director and curriculum advisor, have their offices in the building.

There is a teaching materials reference library for Area faculty members. The Board of Education meets in the building.

And in the basement there is storage room for instructional supplies.

Built as a four-room school in 1908, the building was remodeled for its current use in 1961. Despite the changes, there is no question that the building was once a school.

The fountain in the hall is low for little heads to drink.

DELTA COUNTY'S CENTER FOR GREETING CARDS AND PHOTOGRAPHY NEEDS

County School Unit Coming?

The continued consolidation of school districts in the future is foreseen by Supt. Luther M. Barrett of the Escanaba Area public schools.

He said it is not unlikely that eventually Delta County will form one district.

"Federal aid is encouraging this trend," Barrett said. "Right now, we have 10 school districts in the county."

"On federal projects, every one of the districts has to make separate reports and accounting. Under a county-wide district, there would only be one project and one report needed."

Barrett said also the trend in state educational circles is encouraging consolidation. There were over 2,000 school districts in the state not too many years ago, he pointed out. Today there are only 830.

Goal of the state school reorganization act is 500 districts.

"It wouldn't surprise me a bit to see a county-wide district sometime in the future," Barrett said.

I Attended Escanaba Schools In 1915

BY ELMER KLASSELL

1100 5th Ave. S.

Class Of 1915

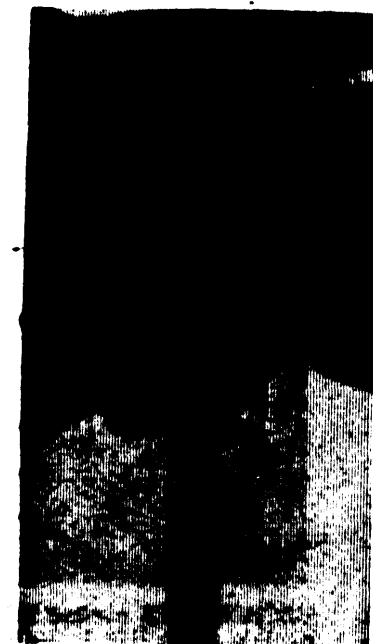

Looking back to the many years when we attended the Escanaba schools, and finally graduating in 1915, we must agree that our happy school days were over and we must face new adventures, college or looking to industry for opportunities.

Kindergarten and grades to seven in the Jefferson, Barr and Washington and Webster. Then to the Franklin, where we graduated from the eighth grade.

Then to the ninth grade in the High School, joining with others from the rural areas. Freshmen we were without any doubt, looking for that higher learning and expecting and receiving counsel on "don't do this and don't do that," waiting and longing for the day when we would be sitting on the other side of the auditorium as juniors or seniors.

Many a laugh was brought on by some freshman entering the auditorium walking loudly on his or her heels, followed at a short distance by the home room teacher, who gave the usual lecture about walking quietly to your seat.

The school year of the 1915

Elmer Klassell

graduating class has left many pleasant memories. We received an excellent 12th grade education.

The Escanaba School system has continued to improve and today with the Junior College, Area system and new schools being built, the citizens of the Escanaba school area can be justly proud.

Escanaba Area Schools Are Big Business Now

The Escanaba Area public school district is big business.

Its annual operational budget now totals nearly $2 million. There are over 175 teachers and administrators and about 80 more nonprofessional employees.

The annual payroll approaches $1.7 million—one of the highest in Delta County.

Student enrollment is over the 4,450 mark — more students than Northern Michigan University had several years ago.

There are books to buy, instructional supplies, soap, towels, gasoline, fuel oil, crayons, pencils, chalk and a thousand more items which are used each year to give those 4,450 students the best possible education.

But each time something is purchased, there are records to be kept.

The schools are "public" schools and the district is responsible to the public.

This is where the business manager comes in.

First Appointment

In 1960 — with the consolidation of Escanaba and rural districts into the Escanaba Area district — the Board of Education appointed the late Clarence Zerbel its first business manager. When he retired earlier this year, Stephen C. Baltic, former principal at the Area High School, was appointed.

Baltic, also a former teacher, athletic coach and administrator, has three women employed in the business office at the school administration building to assist him in maintaining the various records which are required by the state and requested by the Board of Education. They are, Mrs. Geynell Corriveau, bookkeeper; Mrs. Bette Erickson, secretary, and Mrs. Irene Olson, assistant bookkeeper.

State of Michigan general school laws provide that a school board of any third class district shall have the powers to "appoint in its discretion, a business manager for the school district and fix his compensation."

Board May Appoint

The law also provides that the board may "appoint a suitable person, not a member of the board, as fiscal agent, directly responsible to it, for a period not to exceed three years and to delegate to such fiscal agent . . . such part of the management and control of purchases, contracts, and other business matters . . ." as desired.

Baltic holds these positions in the Escanaba Area system.

As business manager, he has the following responsibilities: budget, payroll, financial accounting, purchasing and distribution of supplies, non-professional personnel management, insurance, hot lunch, school plant operation and maintenance, bus transportation, new plant construction, documents and financial reports and miscellaneous.

In a district as large as Escanaba, of course, it is impossible for one person to handle directly all of these duties. In the Board of Education's adopted organization structure for the district, however, the business manager is ultimately responsible just as the superintendent is for instruction.

Since 1960, when the area District was formed with Cornell, Ford, River and Wells Townships and the first business manager was named, Baltic offered these comparisons.

Comparisons Made

In the 1967-68 school year there were 100 teachers, an enrollment of 2,673 students, seven buildings in an area of 10 square miles and one school bus. In 1964-65, there were 100 teachers, 4,455 students, 11 buildings in an area of 18 square miles and 10 buses.

Budget has increased in that time from $766,675 to about $1,900,000 this year.

Including hot lunch revenues and expenses this year, total school spending will exceed $2 million.

And when you start talking in millions, that's big business.

Educator Compares 1930's With 1960's

(Editor's Note: The following material was compiled by Joseph LeDuc, principal of Washington School, with assistance of other elementary teachers in Escanaba Area system for the Daily Press in an effort to compare elementary education today with the education received by students 35 years ago).

By JOSEPH LeDUC

Principal, Washington School

There have been many changes in the theories and practice of teaching elementary children over the years.

The child today is better educated and expected to learn more in the academic areas of curriculum. Physically, they are larger, healthier with better muscle coordination and better developed programs of health.

The following is a comparison of elementary education of the 1930's and 1960's.

Reading

Phonics sharply curtailed, almost nonexistent. Reading with context clues, picture as-taught mostly by word recognition. Children read quite fluently, but lacked the necessary training in comprehension.

Phonics widely used along with context clues, picture association, reading readiness, look and say words, and extensive stress on comprehension of material covered.

Arithmetic

Number combinations learned by rote use of flash cards with little emphasis on understanding or reasoning. Much of the arithmetic presented in less than a meaningful manner. Over emphasis on rote learning prevented student from independent work.

Number facts now introduced by use of manipulative objects and great stress on the use of audio visual aids and materials. Arithmetic concepts introduced in meaningful manner with emphasis on understanding the "why" and "how" of problem solving.

Language

Language arts utilized memorizing poetry, listening to stories, penmanship practice and much use of short plays for holiday celebration. Penmanship taught by ovals and push-pulls.

Much of our language work is correlated with our reading program, such as, verb usage, contractions, use of capital letters, punctuation, and creative writing. Writing taught by grouping of letters of similar formation.

Spelling

Learning of words by rote repetition and repetitive writing of same word. Very little use of word used in a sentence. Spelling bees were used extensively.

Now spelling taught by hear and spell method, correlated with phonics, and extensive emphasis on use of word in a complete sentence.

Science

Science was emphasizing nature study by observance. Mostly taught incidentally, with very few field trips. Specimen collecting.

Science concepts taught by experimentation with use of problem solving methods. Extensive use of Audio Visual Aids and utilization of new science equipment.

Social Studies

Emphasized history and geography teaching as separate subjects. Textbooks unattractive with very little pictorial description. Student compelled to read extensively with concentration on memory of dates and places.

History and geography now correlated into one text, colorful layout with increased use of maps, globes, transparencies, specimens, Audio visual aids and emphasis on community participation to State, National and World Affairs.

Fine Arts

Art in early times was set in style and lacked sufficient creativeness. Art work grouped.

Art today much more permissive and greater emphasis on creative ability. More stress on individual achievement.

Music

School day begun with singing—Emphasis on final performance.

Music appreciation for improvement of the person himself greatly stressed.

The Barr School Era

FOR 57 YEARS, the Barr School at the corner of 5th Ave., S., and S. 13th St. (top) served the Escanaba school system as an elementary school. Named for Hiram A. Barr, Chicago & North Western station agent in Escanaba and president of the Board of Education, the building was first occupied in 1898, a model of its time. Cost of construction — $9,437.65. Up to 1931, when the junior high was opened to seventh graders, the Barr school had seven grades plus the kindergarten. In its 57 years, the school had an average enrollment of 340 pupils, making a total of near 20,000 students. When the John Lemmer elementary school was built in 1955, doors of the Barr School were closed to school children. In 1960 contract was let to Art DeGrand to raze the building (middle.) Now, the only thing that remains from the building is the old bell, which rounded thousands of times before the school finally closed. The bell is kept now at the Area High School and, perhaps, some day will sound again at a new school as a monument to the past.

Nation Marks Education Week

Thirty-two million parents are expected to visit their children's schools Nov. 6-12 when communities all over the nation celebrate American Education Week, a nationwide observance of the importance of education to this country and its people.

President Johnson, in a proclamation this week in recognition of American Education Week, called on all Americans to "take an active part in the progress and improvement of education."

Sponsored annually by the National Education Association, the American Legion, the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, and the U.S. Office of Education, American Education Week reminds the nation's citizens that good schools are their responsibility.

This year the theme for the week's activities is "Education Adds Up."

And beginning Sunday, Nov. 6, each day of the week-long observance will have its own supporting topic illustrating that education adds up to the following:

- Sunday - To Human Dignity
- Monday - To Rational Thinking
- Tuesday - To A Creative Spirit
- Wednesday - To Self-Reliance
- Thursday - To Economic Competence
- Friday - To Informed Citizenship
- Saturday - To Lifelong Opportunity

William G. Carr, NEA executive secretary, in a statement on American Education Week, said:

"American education has entered its golden age. Opinion polls repeatedly show that education is of high concern to the American people. The federal government has enacted major support legislation for every level of education.

"Social and economic research findings continuously prove that, while education may not be society's all-powerful wonder drug, it is nevertheless an important first aid in curing many of the nation's ills."

Speaking of the importance of local community drives to support and encourage observance of American Education Week, Carr added:

"Education can add up to rich rewards for the individual, the nation, and the world. But only a certain kind and quality of education will do this. What kind and quality is a question to be answered essentially by the local community."

Passenger pigeons were so thick 100 years ago that clouds of the birds darkened the sky. The shooting of pigeons on Sunday morning caused complaints in the little village of Escanaba.

Building Program Advances, Board To Bid Last Job

The Escanaba Area Board of Education will let bids later this month on the final two buildings to be constructed with funds from the $1.45 million bond issue approved last Feb. 1.

Construction has already started on five of the seven scheduled buildings and additions.

Last of the contracts to be let will be those for the new Washington school and the Junior High School boiler plant. The Board will open bids on the project Nov. 15 at 8 p.m. in the School Administration Building.

Fund Reviewed

In a review of the 1966 building and site fund, Supt. Luther M. Barrett reported to the Board of Education that bids on the first five projects are $9,074 under the costs estimated prior to the bond issue.

Adjusted contracts on the Southside and Franklin school total $578,838, over the $563,400 estimate by $15,438, but contracts on the additions to Lemmer, Soo Hill and Wells school buildings came in $24,512 less than the estimate. Estimated cost was $351,350. Actual contract cost is $326,838.

Barrett said that $350,000 has been estimated as the cost for the new Washington School.

Ready Next Year

The new Southside School at the Athletic Field site and the Franklin School are expected to be ready for occupancy by the opening of school next year. The Lemmer, Wells and Soo Hill additions are also expected to be ready.

The new Washington School will not be ready until 1968, although the Junior High boiler plant, which will also heat the new Washington School, must be ready in time for the 1967 heating season because of the phase-out of the city steam plant which currently heats the junior high.

First Teacher

The first schoolteacher in Escanaba was E. P. Lott, who taught the winter term in 1868 and a year later established The Escanaba Tribune, the town's first newspaper.

Delta County had a "Normal School" around the turn of the century and in 1906 Cloverland Commercial College (which closed in 1961) was established. Bay de Noc Community College was opened in 1963.

OF 11 SCHOOL BUILDINGS in use in the Escanaba Area school district, five of them are in township areas which joined the district in 1959. Modern and attractive, this school building is located at Pine Ridge. There are also outlying schools at Cornell, Ford River, Soo Hill and Wells, all of them for elementary grades. ESCANABA DIVISION—Escanaba, Michigan

Area Junior High Is Transitional School

It might come as a shock to some eighth graders today, but Escanaba schools once required that all eighth graders pass written examination before entering high school.

Many of them didn't make it. "Eighth grade graduations were common and quite often terminated formal education," said Roy Hivala, principal of the Junior High School.

Instead of terminating education today, the eighth grade is regarded as a "transitional grade" between the elementary school and high school.

"The Junior High School is between the elementary school and the senior high school," Hivala said. "Scheduling of students in grade seven provides for a transition from elementary school by having each child assigned to a teacher for a long block of time, which is somewhat similar to the elementary practice where the same teacher is responsible for a student all day."

Experiences Varied

"Seventh grade pupils are also assigned to different teachers for several periods each day," Hivala continued. "Eighth graders are assigned to other teachers each period of the day, as in high school."

Hivala said that students at this "transition stage" are too advanced for elementary school and not ready for high school and the junior high was constructed and centrally located to provide a program to meet the needs and problems of this age group.

"Emphasis is given to providing students exploratory experiences," he added. "For instance, during grade eight most students are required to take shop (metal and electrical), home economics (sewing and cooking), mathematics, science, history, physical education, art, vocal music, English, literature, social studies and guidance."

"In guidance classes students appraise their talents, study their own problems, become aware of job opportunities and of high school requirements and opportunities."

He said that orchestra and band instruction are available to children by their own choice.

Built In 1931

The Escanaba Junior High School was constructed in 1931 and for many years contained grades seven, eight and nine. In 1963, when the new Area High School opened, the organization was changed. Grades 1-6 were taught at elementary schools, seven and eight at the junior high and 9-12 at the high school.

Because of crowded classrooms, and buildings in the district, however, over 100 sixth grade students were moved into the junior high building.

First principal of the Junior High was the late Clarence Zerb, who served from 1931 to 1959, when he was appointed the district's first business manager. He was followed by Robert Micensky from 1959 to 1965 and by Hivala in 1965.

The building was enlarged from its original size in 1959 when the district consolidated to include Wells, Ford River and Cornell townships. Seven classrooms were added at the rear of the building and shortly afterward, a new cafeteria was built.

Faculty 35

Currently, 108 sixth graders, 385 seventh graders and 361 eighth grade students attend classes at the Junior High. There are also 14 special education students. Including four sixth grade teachers, the total faculty is 35. A counselor, librarian, principal, part-time nurse and part-time visiting teacher also are employed in the building.

In addition, one adult is employed full-time and two students part-time for secretarial work, there are four cooks, two part-time student supervisors, four custodians and one part-time custodian.

A marker at the corner of 1st Ave. S. and 7th St. erected by the local Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution marks the spot of the community's first public school.

"IF IT'S NEW, WE HAVE IT"

THE 'MUSIC MAN' of Escanaba for many years was the late Frank Karas, who taught instrumental music in the schools and directed the City Band.

Karas Bandshell Honors School's Beloved Teacher

The Karas Memorial Bandshell in Ludington Park, summertime entertainment center for the community since 1956, is a memorial to one of the Escanaba Public School's most revered teachers — Frank Karas.

Karas was indeed the "music man" of the area, whose career as a musician and teacher inspired hundreds of young people and brought pleasure to thousands. It is the fortune of few men to have been so loved and respected by so many of his neighbors.

A daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Karas, Mrs. George Embs, continues the tradition and is a string music instructor in the Area Schools.

William J. Karas, a son of the Frank Karases, is Delta County Road Commission superintendent-engineer.

Teacher, Director

Frank Karas was born in Bohemia and came to America as a youth. In Chicago he met a girl, Helena Topinko, also from Bohemia, and they were married there.

They moved to Menominee in 1914 where Frank played the cornet in the band and where he organized a string orchestra. Besides this he worked all day in a factory.

The family came to Escanaba when Karas was offered a job as orchestra leader in a theater. This was in the days of silent films, when orchestras created mood music in accompaniment to the emotions and action on the movie screen.

When "talkies" came in the orchestras went out and Karas began giving private lessons — teaching the violin and cornet fulltime.

Thousands Attend

The Karases lived near the former Senior High School and there Mrs. Karas, beloved to the students as "Ma," operated the Igloo where the Eskymos came for snacks at nongame. There over the counter of the little store she became a kindly and unofficial counselor to the boys and girls.

"Pa" Karas was employed in the schools to teach instrumental music. He also directed the City Band.

He died July 4, 1948, and the people of the community, inspired by Roy Pearson, one of the members of the Band, started a fund to build a bandshell as a memorial to him.

The man who had so generously shared his gift of music with so many is remembered now each time the City Band plays a concert at the Park, or when the String Ensemble plays — for many of its members were students or friends of Frank Karas.

Eight thousand people gathered at Ludington Park for the Karas Memorial Bandshell dedication program, held on July 4, 1956.

State Public Schooling Continuous Since 1844

While it took Escanaba until 1866 to establish its first public school, the State of Michigan has had "free" schools in continuous operation since 1842.

The principal of good education has remained strong in the state since 1787, when Article III of the Northwest Ordinance stated:

"Religion, morality and happiness, being necessary to good government and the happiness of mankind, schools and means

That statement has been picked up verbatim in each of the four constitutions under which Michigan has been governed since it was admitted to the Union as a state in 1837.

Today, Michigan has nearly two million students enrolled in 943 school districts. Districts have been reduced in number by the School Reorganization Act, which set a goal of 500 districts in the state in an effort to provide larger districts with better education opportunity.

Delta County has a total of 10 districts, including the Escanaba Area. The Escanaba Area district covers a total of 180 square miles and has 11 school buildings in three townships.

Enrollment in the district is 4,500 students, with 1,318 attending the Area High School.

THE ESCANABA AREA PUBLIC SCHOOLS

CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION

For one hundred years the schools have been serving the needs of our children and as we look back over those many years we find that there are many things in which we can feel great pride, but today, perhaps more than at any other time, our pride is at its greatest. With the building program now in progress we know that the physical plants of the schools will be as fine as the academic training. We are proud of these schools and we are proud of the people of this area who made all this possible.
